The Priest Crafts

The robust economics of negative design and toxic scientism

. At one time we called it black magic but now it's more appropriate to refer to it as black science. For 8000 years of opium trafficking that has been the economic backbone of the civilizations, from Babylon to the present-day. Opium is always been the mother and the franchise operations that include all the other addictive poisonous substances bring all the profits back to mother.

. Philosopher's stone which is the true self is always been poisoned by addictions. The priest crafts then that are now called scientist, designer, economist. The names of changed but the principles remain the same, the exploitation and farming of human misery for profit.

. Although this always profitable to artificially increase populations it is even more profitable to generate famine disease and war. And all of this is done by design and black science.

. It is well-known, or should be, that natural hygiene would eliminate the need for most professional medicine. The axiom "an apple a day will make the doctor's beg their pay". If the professional were to actually practice healing he would know longer have repeat clients. One of the franchise operations of courses big Pharma.

. When we were speaking of underground architecture it is clear that corrupt philosophies and religions generate lies about the relationships for procreation. Schopenhauer has made it clear, humans interact with each other male and female for biological reasons and love is an illusion; the poetry in the literature create the romantic illusion, that leads to the slavery of the sexes to each other. The religionist guilt and the shame is the breeding ground for sexual addiction and perversion. Again this social engineering by design for artificial breeding creates over population and all of that is profitable disease.

. The design of the so-called "progress" of what Galbraith calls "the new industrial state" is actually a disease manufacturing process.

. The first social use of computers was for the purpose of gathering a census of the population. As populations increased the need for machines and artificial intelligence to manage the hive mind became paramount, because the entire life-support system in society was dependent on these "thinking machines".

. It is also by design that overpopulated societies need to be controlled, of necessity, by fascistic technologies.

. The book Surveillance Valley clearly points out that the telecommunications global grid purpose is command, control and counterinsurgency (C3 I) in short as a spy technology for total control. It is an illusion that the tools of the techno totalitarian state can be used in "social networking" for social change.

. The touchstone for open and free dialogue is very clear in the arguments for "natural procreative hygiene", they simply do not exist because "overpopulation" is a myth in "new think". Of course this absence of information legitimizes and necessitates the creation of synthetic foods that are genetically modified and is the argument for many other lucrative enterprises including inevitably the greatest pain delivery system of all the three letter word WAR.

. Because of the religious, drug wars and famines in the Middle Ages; the artificial ignorance around procreation, populations in Europe continue to increase at one point the Pope declared that it is his "God-given right to establish a crusade, because you have overpopulated yourself so much that you no longer have food to eat". SBR Charter is writing in the 70s that the threat of overpopulation that is not recognized by the public as a threat is the biggest threat because it will one day be used by the military-industrial complex has an argument for and necessity of war.

. In civilizations like Babylon Egypt and Rome, to the present day, the civil priest crafts designed and realized, the greater the artificial ignorance that induced population growth, the greater the profits from slavery and legions for the perpetual imperial wars. “war without end”.

. It is often said that with education things will change, but it is precisely the toxic design of indoctrination posturing is education that prohibits possibility of open dialogue, free speech and free thought. It is right in the design of the architecture of the learning academies; where the semicircle of the amphitheater with the podium at the front, is exactly identical to the one way top-down information of the television and now the Internet. The history is written according to the needs of corporate agendas. The focus on certain subjects like mathematics and technology are necessary to create technicians and social engineers.

. It was hoped that with the introduction of telecommunications there would be free and open dialogue that was basically peer-to-peer with no middleman and that everyone could talk to everyone everywhere. This propaganda myth was perpetuated in the early days of what DARPA turned the free speech movements “reciprocal interchange” into the multi-billion-dollar advertising scam called the “Internet”.

.Suddenly the architecture of the semicircle theatre in the classroom with the focus point at the front was capable of becoming a circle where there was interaction between everyone at all times. Instead the propaganda technique of information overload where everyone is talking at the same time and nobody is actually communicating anything to anybody about anything became the solution.

. The design of the technological myth that artificial intelligence is capable of thinking and that the machine is superior to the human brain and mind that operates it. The electronic middleman creates and iron wall that interrupts the connectivity of the individual to mind itself. It separates and makes healthy interactive dialogue, from human to human, male to female and possible. When our design priestcraft establishes through social engineering that everyone is the enemy, that we need AI machines and WMDs to protect us.

. If we rewind the tape 8000 years and observe the wisdom of the ancients and their practices in harmony with nature, where everyone sat in a circle and there was pure democracy everywhere. The tribal wars were just like ceremonial football matches. The dentist Dr. Price wrote the book Nutrition and Physical Degeneration,he photographicaly documented the teeth of the so-called primitive societies and compared them with the modern teeth, clearly demonstrated that modern adulterated foods like sucrose destroy the teeth. You noticed also will be increased longevity, contrary to the myth that modern medicine has increased lifespan and decreased mortality rates. A quick look at the demographic J should dispel that myth.

. Professional demographic statistics continue to insist that certain areas of planet Earth have decreasing populations, yet the demographic J continues to increase. This is the mercenary logic anomaly that could be called the "YesNo" that has become the absoute rule of "New Speak". It justifies the new mercenary sciences like genetic engineering for environmental protection.

. It is the “YesNo” continues to perpetuate the illusion that technology and engineering design and solve the problem of environmental and energy crisis in the face of increased overpopulation. It also demands the necessity for the control of the public hive mind with AI generated “YesNo” information.

Title: APPLIED MEDIA ETHICS IN THE SERVICE OF PEACEFUL POPULATION REDUCTION
Format: Lecture: World Parliament of Religions 2015
Description: "The greatest violence against women, on a par with rape, are myths perpetuating enforced procreation and disinformation on the availability of free and natural herbal birth control." The greatest violence against women and children, on a par with rape and sexual abuse, is the irresponsible procreation encouraged via mass media and obsolete laws in large parts of the planet today. This is brought about through disinformation on the availability of free and natural herbal birth control. We do not have an energy crisis or a climate change crisis; we have a population crisis. And yet no attempt to discuss the taboo subject of global population reduction and the way it can be achieved through the sophisticated education of women and children has been made. The Virtual Free University's experimental ejournal Media Free Times that pioneered in 1972 conceptualization for remote learning, via "multimedia periodicals", now known as "web pages"; has currently been developing de-design prototypes for IT systems, data management, analytic functions and information architecture, which achieves the prioritization of education in procreative and nutritional hygiene, for human ecological recovery. These were created in anticipation of the development of mobile app technologies. Thanks to the rapid global spread of smart phones, even in the poorest countries on earth, there was promise that education via mobile app technology could enable the global community to begin to reverse population growth by disseminating and restoring the knowledge required to practice herbal birth control. Thus our educational system could prevent children from having children. However these channels are now already cluttered with the same advertising of pharmaceutical, junk food and petrochemical agendas of the mainstream media that has been blocking alternatives. Perhaps the only remaining option is the restoration of the ancestral procreative wisdom via the oral traditions of the indigenous peoples i.e.: Han, Lithuanian, Ojibwa, just to mention a few, that are now far below minus ZPG. The hope is that the rest of humanity, that has overgrown their boundaries and lost contact with the laws of nature, all those that are now burdening spaceship earth with their numbers would be compelled by this wisdom, to reduce their size to that of the indigenous peoples. Only then would we have a return to the garden of sustainability.

Unfortunately this process will not be effective enough, we are already in the beginning stages of an irreversible ecological apocalypse. To facilitate this change we will need new directions in the governance of our foreign policies and interfaith dialogue to arrive at a universal praxis on the issues of

Maternal Health and Natural Knowledge. The Virtual Free University Think

Tank has been working on these problems for half a century and is offering a foundation course in Media Ethics and Human Ecological Recovery for the development of this thesis for print,educational documentary and mass media programming, to promote public awareness and participation in these questions.

That is to say human ecological recovery through the practice of universal procreative hygiene awareness. We do not have an energy crisis, food shortages and economic meltdowns we have a population crisis. My name is addict and I am a George. I live in an addictive society, a society that manufactures addiction, that is in denial about the realities and effects of an overpopulated world and denial is not a River in Egypt. The 12 steps of Alcoholics Anonymous is an exemplary model for recovery from addiction and so i will be using it here as a suggested means for our recovery. It is the common practice in 12 step circles to open the meetings with a moments silence followed by the serenity prayer. The serenity prayer: God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can and the wisdom to know the difference. Thy will not might be done. In my understanding the root cause of our ecological apocalypse is rooted in our addiction to media, the extensions of the human. To avoid mystification, it is important to understand that our technological society, is a society of media addicts. For the purpose of this essay I need to clarify that the definitions of science is synonymous with the word magic as it was used in antiquity. The word technology and media are synonymous and the modern term addict, is also synonymous with the word sinner in scriptural terms. My purpose in this presentation is to share my experience strength and hope in terms of my recovery experience from media addiction, or power addiction and how it relates to my understanding of media ethics and specifically with regards to global procreative hygiene awareness as it applies to our interfaith dialogue. Media ethics is the natural result of recovery from media addiction. The first precept in the 12 steps is rigorous honesty, the second deflation of the false self, by putting our faith in a power greater than ourselves and the third step is a complete surrender of self-will, to the will of a higher power of our own understanding. The supplement my arguments I will be using sources from numerous wisdom teachings and spiritual traditions. Some of them you may recognize, others may be stranger are new to you, however I ask that you keep an open mind. This is a very difficult subject and that best we hope to open this brief introduction up for future dialogue and brainstorming. We are keenly aware that the the subject of procreative hygiene is taboo in some circles, but in practicing the 12 traditions we will avoid any kind of confrontation, or outside issues, in short, as much is possible, remain free of political or religious controversy. Simply put my intention is to present my truth as I understand it for your consideration and contemplation. I believe that we are all here for one purpose and that is to discover what it is that we have in common, rather than what alienates us. I will be seeking that common ground. From the very outset my interest in interfaith dialogue dates back to the peace movements in the 60s and the belief was that if we could learn to respect each other by understanding one another that we would have peace. We have had war without end and no end in sight and I believe that we are all here to change that. I believe that the only way that we can conquer, is with the sword of the most high truth and the fire of unconditional love. I was present at the world Parliament of religions in 1993, one of the speakers stated that for many years in his life, not unlike myself, he had been studying comparative religion and philosophy and found incredible beauty and truth in the writings and the traditions, but notice that in the world, no one was actually practicing their religions. At that time I was representing by default, my ancestry as a keeper of the flame. Our indigenous people, now almost extinct, have been subject to genocide and diasporas for seven centuries. The culture is now completely homogenized to the extent that there may be others who are also "keepers of the flame for our people", but I do not know who they are and I may be the last of them. I understood at a very early age that the reason for these occupations through war, was the result of imperial population expansions. So that the idea that no one is practicing their religions resonated with me very clearly. It is not very well known that there were scriptural references to overpopulation in the very first Genesis produced centuries before the Old Testament version that we are familiar with. Whereas the flood of Noah in our Western tradition was apparently caused by "sin" it is not very clear what that sin was. However in the earlier version the cause of the flood was due to overpopulation, in other words the compulsive obsessive hubris of our antediluvian ancestors created ecological strife to such an extent that nature destroyed them by flood. The sin then would have been excessive procreation. It is ironic that we still are conditioned with toxic shaming to think that the sin is our sexuality, but in actuality, it appears to be our uncontrolled procreation. We speak of the wages of sin being death and I don't think we need very much keen observation, or mystifying meditation to see things as they are and notice that we are indeed in the middle of an ecological apocalypse, as the result of our hubris and greed. The farmer who is indoctrinated to believe that it is okay to raise children for the purpose of labor. The landlord who encourages slaves to procreate, because the more addicted slaves there are the greater the profits. The religious bureaucrat who counts the money from the poor box and is grateful that "the poor shall always be with us" and encourages her congregation to "increase and multiply" because that increases the income from baptisms, weddings and funerals, the warmonger who encourages the religions to increase and multiply for greater advantage in war and the drug dealer in the disease establishment who profits most of all, from human misery. The equation is very simple "the greater the numbers and population, the greater the misery, disease, famine and war, the greater the profits if you're in the drug business". The media monopoly of the disease establishment financed by the big drug dealers that is to say big salt, big sugar, big caffeine, big pharmaceuticals and the mother of them all big opium, not to mention the plug-in drugs are themselves media addicts. They believe in God, the God of gold oil and drugs. Drugs being the main part, the Gold and the oil are there only to launder the drug money. The God of media, the extensions of the human: Money and power. This appears to be the religion of the majority in this age. Increasingly religions themselves are becoming simply media providers. Showbiz, Ersatz religiosity, increased mystification and metaphysical kitsch, like our built-in obsolescence seems to be the only marketable possibility. We flip through the channels and web pages like passing billboards on the Internet superhighway, seeking but never finding any oasis, or resting place. We are media addicts in denial and we have no way back home to the garden of sustainability because we have lost all contact with the most high truth of our being. So what can we do about it? The 12 steps are basically 12 principles. The first principle is the concept of rigorous honesty. Unless the addict can come to the realization that they are powerless over their addiction, there is no way that they will ever recover. Because without that rigorous honesty they will continue to stay in denial and all "the weapons of mass distraction" will keep them there locked into their "tranquilizer chairs", vicariously acting out with their heroes, or antiheroes that seem to be miraculously escaping the bondage and domination of their captors and in this delusional state can continue posturing at making change by donating to NGOs and everybody else out there, with their hands out, that are green washing the issues. In reality however even though it will appear to them that somehow they are dealing with their compassion fatigue and imagining that they are flying in virtual reality, free of the world's worries, in actual reality they are wired in so completely and so totally, like the embryo in "the matrix" of "the new industrial state", that molds and manipulates us from cradle to grave. Is there any scriptural reference that suggests an alternative to this state of addiction and slavery? The Judeo-Christian," Islamic world all share the same ethical precepts. The most obvious violation is "thou shalt not commit murder" as there has been war without end in the West from the time of David to the present. But in terms of our media addiction as a society, we need to pay careful attention also to the very root of the other violations, that of being disconnected from the most high truth. "Have no other gods before me" and "make no graven images... And do not worship these icons..." If you want to stay free." This violation I think is a classic definition of media addiction, sacrificing the connectivity to the "I am" presence, whether it is called "the Buddha nature", or "the

Christ within', or the "AinSof", the mystery of the nameless one or the 999 names of God, or the philosophical "thing that it is" are all symbolic representations of one and the same thing: "the most high truth." When the great ethicist was observing the life force symbolically represented by the "burning Bush" and was completely overwhelmed by the mystery and the truth of his vision, he was asking, how will I describe you to the people below in the Valley who are worshiping "the Golden calf" and the answer was "I am that I am" in other words "if they can't see it you can't tell them about it." The other ethical precept that stands out in terms of the ancient regime practice of encouraging population increase for the sake of building legions of armies, the number of slaves and "Tilly the toilers" who were needed to build munitions, along with "the technological necessity" to have the entire society in "the brave New World" addicted to "soma" that is to say sucrose, which is the precursor of multiple other addictions and root cause of perhaps 85% of all of our medical trauma and expenses. This precept "thou shalt not commit adultery" I think needs to be correctly interpreted in the deeper sense that I adultery is actually adulteration. Whether it's sexual adulteration caused by toxic shaming that creates the sex addict, or the adulteration of the food supply, the pollution of air and water or the public mind. I think the concept of freedom from slavery would imply the practice of not contaminating, through perversion, for some kind of remuneration, or material profit motive; polluting the natural order of the world. Just as we start thinking, that our hubris will save us from our own folly, we need to remember another ethical precept "thou shalt not take the name of the Lord in vain". This one especially as most important in terms of emancipation from power addiction, because historically the father of our present

disease establishment media monopoly, was the earlier ancient politico religious "new world order" that basically argued in favor of increasing populations for the purpose of war and has been reiterated ever since. The belief in myth that populations are balanced out by the three horsemen of the Apocalypse, disease, famine and war. The blasphemy of taking on the role of God in order to farm humanity and profiteer from human misery is sustained by the hubris. The sadomasochistic addiction to power completely disconnects those who believe that "ruling in hell is better than serving in heaven" from the most high truth and is a suicidal dance that throws the entire civilization into hysterical overconsumption the end result being the spread of urban deserts, that are and have been for centuries eating up our planet, that beautiful blue marble in space, like a virus or a mold on an Apple. When we speak of the tree of life, that unites us all, we can imagine this planet like that Apple in the garden of sustainability and so it was that with our hubris that we created the tree of knowledge of good and evil. What we used to call magic, is now called science. I don't think personally, that finding out the difference between what works and what does not work in nature is necessarily a bad thing. The magic or the science of our ancestors carried from generation to generation, from elder to youth, the ancestral wisdom, of the use of herbs for healing, for nutrition and for procreative hygiene. I cannot see how this knowledge could possibly remove man from the garden of sustainability. I think the real problem arose when we decided to rearrange the most high truth according to our power addicts cravings for self aggrandizement having lost connectivity with the true self or the higher mind. Simply speaking there is a story that illustrates this concept that I like very much and it goes like this. An Imperial religionist bureaucrat and the

devil were walking down the highway together and having a pleasant conversation when lo and behold the bureaucrat noticed in the distance a man in the bushes have found some your urns containing scrolls. He asked the devil, " what has he found?" The embodiment of all evil answered "he has found the truth" and so they continued walking. The religionist was a little confused and asked "your Majesty you are of the Prince of deception, why are you not intervening and removing the truth from the man?" The devil answered "my friend there is no need for that. He will rearrange it himself." So we have a problem, not that we are familiar with the tree of knowledge of good and evil, but that we are rearranging it to our own liking. We have a man machine reality that is based on scientism and not science. We have an ongoing theological war without end that is a complete departure from the ethical precepts of the most high truth which is the religion of religions and the common core teachings of all spiritual traditions. I'm sure that at the time of Genesis the idea that humanity should go forth and "increase and multiply" was a positive and benevolent natural thing to do. But in an era where all of our resources that we counted on to keep populations at bay have failed us. In a time where the really most inconvenient truth that our Imperial religiosity has generated an irreversible demographic J, that is like a tsunami that will destroy everything in its path. In an age where two world wars and two cold wars have not put a dent in this demographic J. I think it is wise to accept the fact that the profitable theory that disease, famine and war have not been successful and in fact have only compounded our suicidal race to oblivion. We can no longer count on war because we have reached the technological reality of mutual are sure destruction. As long as there is profit from scarcity in the form of artificial agricultural processes and the adulteration the food including the pollution of the DNA we cannot expect famine to be considered "a problem". And of course the profits from disease for the drug cartels in the pharmaceutical companies is not going to be a deterrent when our economies are entirely supplemented by the income from these corruptions of science. We see the struggle between science that is pseudoscience and religion that is pseudoreligion, where in reality there is no actual conflict. The conflict arises because the human who has lost contact with the most high truth, because he has rearranged it to the liking of his own addictive personality, no longer is capable of navigating without the rudder, or the compass of his own ethical precepts and is lost in the darkness of his own self perpetuated ignorance, a mediated artificial ignorance generating an artificial codependency and perpetuating the addictive vicious cycle of self-delusion, self aggrandizement and self annihilation. The definition of hell is the absence of the most high truth disconnection from the true self. This is the unforgivable sin. The Imperial religions of the ancient regime have had a whirlwind from their own pursuits and that child is what we now call the media monopoly. There was already a climate change in the Middle Ages as a result of overpopulation people to feed the religious wars. People needed to build fireplaces and insulate their homes with wood from the forests that were sacred temples to our ancestors. They needed wood to make weapons and suits of armor. They needed wood to build warships and later they needed wood to build cannons. Of course inevitably they ran out of wood and so although everyone knew that burning coal was toxic trying to the air and debilitating to the health, the religious military governments banned the use of firewood for manufacturing weapons and of course we started burning fossil fuels. Once coal ran out we turn to oil and fought two world wars over that resource and then to cold wars over nuclear power. It all these wars the image of the priest blessing the weapons and the tanks, the bombs and the arsenals of chemical and bacteriological death. A man in a Roman collar on television proclaiming that it is our duty to nuke anyone that does not agree with us. And all of this "the fields of poppies growing on row", it is all about the poppies, so that few addicts could profiteer from human misery and be blessed the process? It is why we are here with the hope that interfaith dialogue will help us get rid of our distrust and anger, so that we can return to the light of reason. We can only conquer with the sword of the most high truth in the fire of unconditional love. Closing I would like to say the serenity prayer with you now: "God grant us the serenity to accept the things we cannot change', we cannot take the inventory of other power addicts were fix them in any way. "The courage to change the things we can" we know what it is to be an addict, in scriptural terms a sinner, because we have been there ourselves. We know that we are entirely dependent on our recovery because we have faith that "a power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity" that doing the same things over and over again and expecting different results is the definition of insanity. The courage to get our ego's off the center of the universe so that the addicts small mind is out of the way and is connected to the big mind of the most high truth. And from this process we receive "the wisdom to know the difference" and most importantly "May thy will which is the opposite of the addicts "my will" be done. That is the third step, it is a complete and total surrender. "I turn my will and my life over to the to do with me as thou wilt" that is synonymous with the concept of Islam, that of being a slave of God not to the self or to others. It is also in the spirit of spiritual poverty and obedience in Christianity. In Judaism the love of wisdom. In Buddhism the absence of ego. In Taoism the unprejudiced and unbiased harmony of opposites, in short the ethical acceptance that the most high truth is a mystery, but it is the mystery that is the life force in all of us connecting us to the tree of life. We are just like leaves on that tree. "For those who have ears let them hear". I wish you all another 24 hours free from power addiction and I remain your humble servant. Unconditional peace, love, well-being and prosperity to all. Thank you for letting me share. g~k~ / http://GeorgeKasey.com Re.: "We conquer with the Sword of Truth and The Fire of Unconditional Love" - pre-parliament presentation studies continued - update 150706 In the contemplation on the opus at hand, we are struggling to move away from direct indictment of the imperial religionist history as the primary cause of the global conflagration via overpopulation theology, with all Its spin offs i.e.: "the three horsemen of the apocalypse", but rather to maintain a clear defining inventory, for the purpose of recovery (Step 4) via a return to sanity (Step 2) only possible by the deflation of the mass hubris (Step 1) and abandonment of the practice of blasphemy (Step 3), the power addicts rule for self aggrandizement, in keeping with the principle embodied in the Twelve Steps, that we know work, if we work them. <> To participate in brainstorming and development please register: The Virtual Free University foundation course Applied Technethics, De-Design and Human Ecological Recovery See Also: Media Ethics: Global Natural Procreative Hygiene campaign © 1972-2015 The George Kasey Foundation Inc. / Media Free Times / Media Anonymous World Service / HeartCalm productions communications syndicated international g~k~ The George

Emmenagogues for Sustainability

Question:

Why do we lose the equivalent of one Hiroshima / Nagasaki, of children every 24 hours, due to maternal health and related issues and no one knows about it ?

Children making children, that can not feed, or care for themselves, are breeding more dysfunctional children, if these new births do not wither and die, they breed more...a vicious cycle of planetary slow death. Think Tanks for Corporate and Governmental Green washing of "Social responsibility" (SR), are not dealing with our ecological and economic crisis; that of overpopulation, instead they are the root source and causes by generation artificial ignorance. Since 1972 we have known that the only true global solution in terms of a return to "sustainability" is minus Zero Population Growth.

If we actually practice SR and not green washing, we do have the media technology so that this can be achieved, without violence, in one generation. If we use the media to restore accurate knowledge of the birthright of ancestral indigenous wisdom, of the use of herbal birth control i.e.: emmenagogues. Since 1972 our Media Free Times / PeaceMaker Virtual Free University (Think Tank) projects have been working on the alternatives to, Procreating Ourselves to Death. We focus on the very real issues of human rights, media ethics violations by the dis-ease establishments, suppression of information, about procreative and natural hygiene i.e.: disinformation about herbal birth control and anti-nutrients. In short, we expose the profiteering from human misery, by media monopolies controlled by pharmaceutical, drug cartels vested interests. Lets get real when we talk about SR.

Not sure what this has to do with defusing the population bomb, which is the key factor in human rights, as per Desmond Morris's Human Zoo; unless the fact that capitalism generates artificial ignorance enabling irresponsible procreation of breeders...this is not a gender issue ...it takes two to tango and if neither couple knows what an emmenagogue is then what gender rights do they have. As a recovering alcoholic who loves grapes and raisins it is good to hear. What I detest is the adulteration of nature's bounty for profits. Case in point is the horrific practice of capitalization and the not only of Sucrose, but all kinds of monstrous chemicals that I maintain is the root cause of the disease of alcoholism. Welcome to our Think Tank. We believe a neutral Al, not Artificial Ignorance, can reverse the dystopian nightmare that we are delivering to our children. Here is the problem in terms of media ethics and your thoughts on it are valuable to us.

Can IT fix this and if so how?:

I am concerned the we are now In a world where people have been so condition that they have lost the art and science of intellectual response and open dialogue. Of all of the missives submitted to 50 new contacts, none have responded with any comments, critical review or disagreements. In answer to a typical post on " sustainability " in the fashion industry, my unpublished thesis argued i.e.: contrary to Ursula Franklin's posit that 'we have too many cars ..." , most business sustainability follows this logic. The fact of the matter is not that we are drowning in the junk and pollution of consumer consumption of cars, or petrochemical fashion industry output but the with the increase of populations coupled with the Fordism of mass produced, global distribution strategies of built-in obsolescence that we cannot possibly have a sustainable anything.

We simply have the problem of teaching 8 billion children how to avoid irresponsible procreation.. the problem of stopping disease establishment media monopolies from disseminating artificial ignorance. If we have minus population growth the number of cars and the fashionable gear that is used to adorn the ego to drive them in will drastically be reduced. Case in point in India see recent Scientific study of Patanjali's suggestion to use Hibiscus for birth control see: https://www.researchaate.net/profile/Sonali -Bhakta/publication/308713615_A_new approach of herbal contraception in male _Swiss_albino_mice _bv_Hibiscus rosasinensis An in vivo study ARTICLE INFO ABSTRACT/links /57ec616a08ae93b7fa959189/A-new -approach-

The question why this information is not available by Family Planning, WHO, UNESCO or any imperial religion or government in terms of sustainability. Obviously there is more profit in the pain delivery systems caused by overpopulation : famine, disease/ pandemics & WAR for the big opium spawned franchise operations i.e.: big Sucrose, Big Pharma , Caffeine, Sodium Chloride, Alcohol, Nicotine et a l. I think you can understand the a problem a bit more now and can put together why these researchers above have not received a Nobel Peace prize and no one has heard of their work.

No one ever paid attention to Patanjali's teachings on this matter either, not even Vivekananda at the World Parliament of Religions 1893, who was like Mother Teresa so outspoken about poverty and malnutrition. PROGRESS & SCIENCE ...so here we are; every second video shows the damage, where are the long term root cause solutions? i.e.: Minus Zero Population Growth (-ZPG) All we need now is quantum physics that will neutralize nuclear waste, challenge the orthodox thinking on WMD research; restoration and reversal of genetic mutilations of the human gnome, natural and procreative hygiene to defuse the population bomb, all by eliminating the mercenary scientism that generates artificial ignorance.None of the above will guarantee a Nobel prize or even enable minimal income. That's us out here...the techno heretical practitioners of applied media ethics : Technethic Clerics LOL RtstjrchGaic Open dialogue on the theory of applied Techneiics in terms of consumer law i.e.: Roe v. Wade & Canadian Gov. v. Big Pharma - a class Action suit FW: The George Kasey Foundation Inc..

C c.: To Wham It May Concern Bcc M.F.T. : Think Tank Members, Friends, Alumni and Sponsors Open dialogue on the theory of applied Technetlcs In terms of consumer law I.e.: Roe v. Wade & Canadian Gov. v. Big Pharma - a class Action suit FW: The George Kasey Foundation Inc. - addendum esq. (m ~ s ~) et al: As our legal counsel and Friend in dialogue, discourse analysis and praxis dialectic, on the issues of applied technethics and law, with your background in consumer advocacy and recent studies as a master of business administration, we invite you to pick up the thread, we were engaged in some months ago, of our think tank concept for a representative action of 'Gov. v. Big Pharma* on the question of the impact and public cost of dysfunctional birth control technology.

In particular the media disinformation of natural procreative hygiene alternatives that are a violation of human rights to knowledge as per article 14 of the United Nations charter for human rights. In recent months we have been submitting numerous missives of our think tank screed and 1 think you're familiar with ViFrU protocols sufficiently to be able to separate the dross from the internal memms, that point to suggested applications of great importance; however we feel that this particular issue, is the nub and critical pivot point on which the whole edifice of our argument rests. Especially in terms of the urgency, in term s of mass media M windows o f opportunity'. presenting themselves recently, due to the pending possible legal reversal of the precedents set by "Roe v. Wade*.

If you remember our dialogue on the impossibility of a class-action suit versus the big Pharma birth control industry, we both agreed that it was a highly improbable litigation due to the cost and possible minimal returns not to mention the difficulties of launching such a massive enterprise. Nevertheless our think tank is dedicated to the hypothesis, that m term s of radical creative innovation and consultation that, "only the impossible is worth doing".

Case in point, we have managed to bridge the "impossible... Catch-22" of NGOs without financial backing competing with the "big money vested interest groups" for access to governmental support and we are currently partnered with the Global Affairs Canada This is not a small advance however, because it alters the paradigm somewhat also on the question of the possibility of "funding", for such a class-action suit by Governments and a consequent global mass media reportage on the issues pertaining to " Roe v. Wade" which would establish universal precedent on the rights of humans to have access to the ancestral knowledge on natural procreative hygiene destroyed by centuries of imperial religionists inquisitions and drug cartel media monopolies.

Although, we have argued before that, in the first place, it should be a matter of practical ethical governance to begin with and in term s of interfaith dialogue, a central issue of ethics and m orality, of the highest priority. Without question, two wrongs do not make a right and a child impregnated may be one wrong but fostering an attitude of total neglect enabling children to make children is completely unacceptable, in an overpopulated planet, that is now suffering the consequences i.e.: "climate crisis*, " the economic crisis', "water shortages", "war" and the list is endless. Let us assume for a moment that we are dealing with responsible government and that there is a willingness on the part of the citizenry to support such an initiative, given the improbability of accurate media monopoly reportage of the critical information involved. In this case let us proceed with creating the outline for the possible brunt of the action with a fictionalized version of an actual case that we are very familiar with: This is a story of two young lovers, who were faithfully taking birth control pills and had a baby. The year is 1979, It is a time when the media was encouraging *sexual liberation' and the free speech of advertisers and pornographers, with the simultaneous motivational research being used to market pharmaceutical birth control.

The real threat of overpopulation was also a tool to encourage minus zero population growth however if we follow the money it appears that basically it was all about marketing these defective products to the public. We say defective because the medical research has affirm ed that pharmaceutical birth control methods create physical duress, as well as numerous other negative symptoms and trauma due to the destruction of 6 complex vitamins, Thiamine, Riboflavin and Niacin, thus causing depression. Also the IUD was problematic due to infections and the petrochemical industry solution of the broken condom, or those second hand ones used by the poorest of the poor, prove ineffective. 2 Conversely, thorough systematic research on herbal birth control, has proven beyond a shadow of the doubt, the 100% efficiency, without side effects and without cost. Yet the actual attempts at marketing these products is been discouraged by sophisticated media jamming and any attempt at interfaith dialogue has been rendered taboo; as was the case with the presentation at The World Parliament o f Religions*, where the abstract for our presentation, during a woman's plenary session, with the sentence deleted: ~~~and the way it can be achieved getting back to o u r story of the two young liberated teenagers who were being responsible citizens given the information that was presented to them by the media of the day, faithfully acting on the assumption that medical science cannot err, were surprised to find that they were with child. And needless to say under the auspices of religious intervention were encouraged to proceed and to procreate. Any astute student of psychology would clearly see the oxymoron knot they were tied into, the standard "Yes No'" equations o f the disease establishments. So. with the dubious support of ill-inform ed parents and advisors they proceeded to "get married and have a child*. While there were a few problems, notably that neither one of them had the means to sustain their own livelihoods, or their addictions, the subliminally enforced procreation agendas of 'baby factories' continued and they gave birth to a new citizen and added to the global birth statistic of 6 billion, we have generated in the last fifty years since then.

Under these conditions, sociological and psychological research evidence, would indicate that given these circumstances, a child reared in environments of violence, abandonment, addiction, poverty i.e.: "children being raised by children would be deprived of the essentials for attaining a healthy well-being as an adult. The average success rate of these teen marriages, that are sponsored by government welfare, last approximately two years, If that, then the single m other is unable to manage, especially If there is addiction Involved, or she has to seek employment. In this story the child, now an adult recounts coming home from grade school to an empty apartment with empty shelves and a refrigerator full of beer.

This is a particularly Canadian story here, but I do not think it is in any way unique elsewhere. Addicts creating addicts! It is good for the disease establishments, but not for the commonweal. So how is this information of any relevance class-action suit? Well, it could be argued that, the bottom line is the Canadian taxpayer and for that matter every citizen on planet Earth, has to pay for this malpractice by the scientism of pharmaceutical medicine industries. We had a dialogue recently with a Seventh-day Adventist who presented the arguments that are now pretty well standard fare on the religious right, yet he did finally agree with the fact that it is a violation of the code of ethics of Moses to "bear false witness" on the availability of natural procreative hygiene.

Had this young couple been informed by government, religion's authorities, media 'experts ' and our academies of science and higher learning, of the facts, that It is inappropriate to bear children, when we cannot take care of ourselves, that it is a violation of human rights to bring children into dysfunctional environments and given the information and means whereby to make a simple herbal tea, to induce the flow of menstruation, this tragedy would not replicate itself billions of times over. Certainly an inform ed public would demand redress and thus the impossibility of such a class-action suit becomes not only possible, but imperative given our current ecological apocalyptic awareness, in the form of pseudo-intellectual platitudes, such as the possibility that governments can "fix the climate crisis".

Nevertheless, as you have pointed out previously, we are bearing in mind that "there is a difference between ethics and Law " and we think you certainly have been informed sufficiently of our applied TechnEthics clerical agendas, so that we can proceed with the possible logistics, for a legal precedent especially as it applies to 'Roe versus Wade" and the equivalents in Canadian and European law. There are a few questions that need to be asked however. Is it the responsibility of advertisers to tell the truth?

Obviously in practice that seems to be an absurdity. Is it the responsibility of governments to impose on the free speech of advertisers? Albeit that political survival depends on media, even so where do we draw the line? When does the how the public tax dollar is being spent have priority, in this case the proposed spending of S2.6 billion over the next 10 years for pseudo scientific treatment of global maternal health issues. Where do we draw the line? Even if we could find the resources to gather the massive research necessary to articulate under law, the cause of this child and other victims of malpractice by pharmaceutical advertising, arguing that if given appropriate information this child would've had a better chance at life if she were born to mature adults who were able to provide reasonable parenting.

What is the dollar value in our society for a healthy life, as opposed to the social burden of caring for the dis-ease of dysfunctional family planning? How much of a compensation should be presented to those who have suffered the consequences of blatant disinformation and what the limit of this compensation, th a t is to say if the entire society is affected, by for example the dysfunctional adult child? Clearly, given the resources, the arguments under law, would greatly support such a Claim, if backed up by scientific research on the effectiveness of natural and free emmenagogues, combined with the precise psychological, sociological data on motivational research effects, along with the evidence from victims of this disinformation of personal damage to life and progeny, not to mention the destruction of the centuries of ancestral science and wisdom of natural procreative hygiene. Whereas, before we were thinking of a private action, sponsored by private initiatives and found that to be an improbable scenario; we now have the partnership of the Canadian governmental, to consider as a possible alternative, that may indeed push this through the disease establishments media monopoly firewalls, so that in fact we can have something that resembles ethics under law.

To finally put to the test the legitimacy of how the "Mainstream Media* buys into industry propaganda and foists it upon targeted consumers as "Truth* without asking questions. Thank you for your audience and consideration and we are open to all for interactive debate further on this most important opus.

Natural Procreative Hygiene as Universal Praxis

DOI: 10.13140/RG.2.2.34657.07527

... Okay I think one of the major problems I'm having is actually communicating the essence of the media ethics involved with my work and specifically they realization that most people simply do not understand the meaning of the term procreative hygiene and when we're talking about these things I am specifically referring to the restoration of the ancient wisdom of harmony with the natural order of the world that was practiced for centuries prior to Big opium Imperial agendas.

Now it is virtually impossible for most people to understand this work because I have been unable to present lectures as I would have been had I been in a university format. Unfortunately at The peacemaker virtual free University conceptualization the necessity for interactive dialogue has simply not happened. And therefore the clarification and articulation of the basic concepts has not been possible. Now I will try again to briefly describe what I mean by natural procreative hygiene as it was understood by our humanity centuries ago and it is very difficult for me to really articulate or rather inform readers who are actually not involved in a study type environment so this is a big handicap for me. Now in terms of this idea of harmony with nature as I have come to understand it from thousands and thousands of hours of research is simply that in ancient times I'm talking about pre Vedic times a universal science of yogic Praxis was understood in all cultures around the world. Okay I will try in a few words to explain what I am all about here. People understood everywhere that it was absolutely unacceptable for children to make children. They realized that the human brain and the human body is not completely formed until the age of 23, people assume that back then humanity was ignorant it is entirely an incorrect understanding people were extremely wise and even now the medical standard for healthy childbearing has been established between the ages of 24 to 35.

I have been confirming this with different indigenous cultures and just recently the Ojibwa elder women have started to organize a reconstruction of the ancient practice of not allowing children to have children. In the words of one of the elders the woman would have to be at least 30 years old, and perfect health completely sane and able to take care of her child and herself before they would even allow her to have a child. Also she would not be allowed to have another child for another 7 years so that she could nurture and breastfeed the first child for 3 to 4 years and then recover in full health to have the second child. Now in her lifetime she would only have possibly two maximum three children and not 10 or 15 prematurely formed humans. Of course humans are going to have sex and these cultures new and studied the effects of every single herb and use them for nutrition, healing and contraception. Every single culture all over the planet had knowledge of the use of a emenagogues and other herbs that were strong enough to abort the fetus.

So if the 13-year-old or 22-year-old missed her period they would immediately make a tea and 48 hours later she would have her period without any need for an abortion. Now we know that it is entirely not in the interest of drug cartels and pharmaceutical companies to inform the public of the actual uses of these herbs. Now I have confirmed this also with African elders who affirmed that the woman was to be 30 years old and not 13. My dialogue with Dr Pakes who is a senior educator at the University of Toronto school of medicine informed me that the fact of the matter is that contemporary medical establishments have no idea as to the exact properties and use of these herbs and significantly of course it is certainly not in the interest of pharmaceutical companies to invest in research to establish the correct and appropriate use of the herbs for the simple reason that it would be a loss of trillions of dollars of revenues based on artificial ignorance generated by their control of the public media.

Thus it is a media ethics issue and a human rights issue because these are violations of the United Nations Charter of Human Rights to access of knowledge and information critical to humanity. We have been advocating via the WPoR and submitted an abstract to the object of compulsory education worldwide for children on these questions of the appropriate age for childbearing and the means whereby children who inevitably will get pregnant have to avoid conception. The abstract was submitted first at the 21st round table on childhood education at Oxford University. And then resubmitted again at the 2015 presentation at the world parliament of religions where the first sentence was censored and deleted. The sentence was quote the greatest violence against women on a par with rape and sexual abuse is a suppression of information on a use of herbal birth control for natural procreative hygiene in most parts of the world today end of quote So simply put it is entirely unethical for children now due to the reversal of the roe versus Wade in the United States a young girl who has an abortion is looking at 99 years in prison and because of the fact that she is not aware of her ancestral history of what her great great grandparents used to avoid premature irresponsible procreation the use of herbal amenagogues she would not have to spend the rest of her days doing slave labor in a prison.

This is obviously a major human rights issue and therefore it requires proactively disseminating the information for a change in the global educational system that is actually indoctrinating the humanity and lies and propaganda for mercenary interests of media monopolies controlled by drug cartels and pharmaceutical interests. So it is not just a matter of marketing or distributing herbs we're talking about human rights issues and this is my work in media ethics and for that I need support and I have invited you to participate in the dialogue. I have invited thousands of others over 46 years to participate and you seem to be the first person who is actually engaging in a full virtual reality University Think Tank dialogue on these actual principles.

...a threat to the big Pharma interests, generating artificial ignorance in order to profit from Human misery and by so doing have artificially overpopulated the planet and added 8 billion prematurely formed humans and added slaves to the planet in the last 50 years and consequently destroyed the ecological planets irreparable continuum.

I hope that this explanation will assist in clarifying the gravity of the situation that we are in, on LinkedIn I have over 600 professional sustainability mercenaries who haven't got a clue about the root causes of the problem that is artificial overpopulation generated by artificial ignorance of medium monopolies both religious and medical in the interest of profiteering from the necessary human misery of famine disease and war which is the effect of overpopulation.

The equation is very simple the greater the population the greater the misery famine disease and war pandemics etc are all cash cows for these poisoners that have been in operation on planet Earth for 8,000 years. I hope that we can work out an efficient way of channeling this information into documentaries for global distribution in a digestible format so that the public can be enlightened as to the reality of the indoctrination and the horror of the reality that we now live in.

Literally we have only two options and years ago my study of the work of pioneer of human ecology S P R Charter who very clearly articulated the problem of overpopulation that is not considered a threat being the major threat because as the populations increase and the global ecology heats up to burning the planet then the only inevitable solution will be military Mutual assured destruction through chemical and bacteriological warfare as well as of course our nuclear poisoning which is already destroyed any possibility of successful human regeneration.

So I hope that we can continue this debate and work out something that will be workable for you and for all the other people that will follow you global Enterprise for human peace and perseverance and health and prosperity for all. I wish you unconditional love and whatever your directions creatively guided by the most high truth will lead you will be acceptable for the higher good. For all. Thank you for sharing and welcome again to future Peacemaker Virtual Free University Think Tank now still alive after half a century of suppression and censorship. Peace.

The Universal Worship of Artificial Life Forms, Our Narcissistic Hubris and Cyber War's https://www.researchgate.net/publication/390319075_The_Universal_Worship_of_Artificial_Life_Forms_Our_Narcissistic_Hubris_and_Cyber_War's

God that we have created has got clay feet. The recent cyber war has demonstrated the capability of our machines shutting down our infrastructure. Because we have so integrated ourselves into these artificial lifeforms our lives are endangered by them. We no longer have the ability to manually reconstruct damaged networks that control among other things our power supplies, water filtration and distribution systems, and certainly our ability to communicate with each other. The ethics of the Mosaic law paraphrased starts with the affirmation " have no other gods before the most high truth... If you want to stay free". We who have been born into the matrix of the new industrial state have no other options but to serve it. Our only purpose is to keep the "system" running. When we can simplify our phenomenological screed into the simple Zen statement that "to see things as they are", we will no longer be perverting the sacred Pythagorean geometry, with our own computerized versions of the higher realities.

The problem is that our our very being from cradle-to-grave is wired into the cybernetic world of artificial lifeforms, to the point that we can no longer hear "the harmony of the spheres". Along with the reality that our entire life-support system is controlled by artificial lifeforms; Our media addiction, that rests squarely on our hubris as rendered us like a newborn child in the womb, but this is an artificial womb, that is totally dependent on the plug in the wall. Once that plug is pulled out that prematurely born embryo will have absolutely no ability to adapt itself to the real world. The ultimate difficulty is that our artificial lifeforms have completely degenerated the ecological system that would enable a manual recovery. This of course is complicated by the result of artificial ignorance generating overpopulation, necessitating further artificial realities.

Marx's writings necessitated a self censorship because his funding was coming from an alcoholic industrialist. "It is impossible to fight a revolution with the weapons provided by those who were revolting against". He also stated "I am not a Marxist". In his own way he attempted to hide his own truth and subtexts in footnotes, to paraphrase his thinking "if you really want to do something about the proletariat you need to get rid of the preachers in the pulpits preaching "increase and multiply" so that humanity does not procreate itself out of its own food supplies".

Likewise it is it completely impossible to have "social change" when the machinery of communications is completely controlled by media monopolies and plutocrats i.e.: big opium and all of its franchise operations like big sugar, big Pharma and the rest. Some will complain that my writing is tangential, without academic form or structure, without proper references in footnotes and so on.

One reference that I would like to attribute my lack of academic formalism to is S. P. R. Charter. He starts one of his most important works on peaceful population reduction is an absolute necessity for peace, with a description of a river. All the rivers start from the source as a stream of water coming up from the ground, as the waters to send through the mountains they are clean and pure, as they proceed down into the valleys the waters become murky and muddy and by the time the river reaches the populated cities at its mouth it is totally polluted. I respect his humility because as other great philosophers he doesn't proclaim himself as "a source" and yet he is a source of what was called human ecological recovery. The mercenary versions have become more obfuscated and the main point is lost. Just as the main point of sacred Pythagorean geometry is twisted into something it was never intended to be, the mother of artificial lifeforms.

I wish you all another 24 hours of peace and freedom.

Questions that Cannot Be Asked -Divergent Free Thought, Hidden Censorship and the Illusion of Social Change in a Plutocracy

Questions that Cannot Be Asked - Divergent Free Thought, Hidden Censorship and the Illusion of Social Change in a Plutocracy

Basically here we are talking about violations of media ethics, the violation of public trust and human rights on a unprecedented scale.

In previous articles the repetition of the argument for global compulsory education for Natural Procreative Hygiene awareness, is a question among many that cannot be asked in a media monopoly control by a disease establishment plutocracy; the simple reason that these obfuscations of natural truth are not profitable for those who benefit from exploiting humanities misery.

The question of why we have overpopulation and how to attain a peaceful solution has not been asked. Instead there has been obfuscation and omission, in the latter half of the 20th century to the present: countless publications, films and documentaries have been produced about ecological crisis, water shortages, pollution, overcrowded cities, the need for genetically modified food and so on.

This question remains unanswered, what to do about overpopulation and its side effects, the profitable pain delivery systems i.e.: famine disease and war.

Obviously where there is profit involved what need is there for the solution or any debate about the subject. Thus we have a taboo on the word overpopulation and instead we have professionals trained in mercenary scientism to deal with the side effects but not the central problem.

It would take entire encyclopedic editions on the subject of obfuscation of Natural Procreative Hygiene efficiently in detail and this article is meant only to touch on other issues, that for highly intelligent divergent thinkers remain glaringly obvious, but apparently are not at all clear to the average citizen in the hive mind.

Here are some other questions that I divergent thinker might ask:

. It is often been stated by white supremacists "I really don't mind that other races should live in their own societies, but they have no reason to be here polluting our culture" the reply from the divergent mind might be ". Well if that's the case why did your culture create the black diaspora that brought 10 million black Slaves from Africa to the Americas to work your sugarcane fields" further "and now that you have destroyed their cultural heritage which included natural procreative hygiene and with your religion taught them to increase and multiply, how can you justify genocide against them."

"In the case of your hate of the Jews, why do you complain about their mastery of business and economics when it was your European religion that allowed them to be the only ones that could deal with money and at the same time forbid your congregations from any possibility of actually dealing with money.

How can you justify genocide against them when it was your religions that gave them the exclusive right to deal with your economies" further "and now that you have arranged all of these societies in such a way so that they overpopulated globally and control your banking systems, what can you do in all fairness to correct your own actions, how can you compensate them for what you in fact you have ordained. Is genocide your only solution in this respect?"

Finally "by what measure do you establish your supremacy over other superior cultures, when the world you have created has had war without end and has arrived at a place where there is only one solution and that is mutual assured destruction" and "when you purchased by deceit Manhattan Island and turned it into a prison colony, where disenfranchised and impoverished Irish and supposedly freed Blacks had to compete for living wages with one another, then how can you wonder what the root of racism is, when this competition for lower wages in fact is a benefit for your bottom lines" on the question of feminism, "how can there be equal rights for women when they do not have control over their own bodies, and they don't have control over their own bodies because they don't have accurate information about herbal birth-control, or education on the the appropriate ages for childbearing, this is not a privacy issue, but it is about the Pivot of Civilization. Yet in the book by the same name, there is no mention of the ancient practices of natural procreative hygiene.

Why? Is it because Family-Planning the WHO and Imperial religions are supported by big pharmaceutical and drug cartel interests."

"Why is it not common knowledge that mental institutions and the whole order of mind police , that we now call the psychiatric profession, was created specifically during the world wars to correct the insanity of those who proclaim to be pacifists. How is it that the psychiatric torture, lobotomies and chemical strait-jackets, practiced with impunity on these political prisoners is not considered to be a war crime"

"how can any nation that now manufactures weapons of mass destruction and at the same time is on the security panels of the United Nations claim to be defending its citizenry from the enemies that build weapons of mass destruction" also "how can any nation that practices manipulation of the public hive mind through weapons of mass distraction be considered a free and benevolent society"

an inmate of the psychiatric institution might say to his family members who are visiting him "I think they put something in my food to poison me". The family members of course would dismiss him as a paranoid with delusions. However ". the fact of the matter is that we have an entire society addicts who are addicted to the drug sucrose and is also known that one of the four children who are fed sucrose will become multiple addicts and most likely at one time or another and up in the hands of the toxic mind police that will feed them more drugs. Most foods are adulterated with the drug that is the root cause of about 85% of all our societies medical trauma and all its expenses that feed the drug cartels i.e.: Big Pharma"

"the fact that the chemical addictions as well as the addictions to plug-in drugs manipulates the hive mind, through the total control of media, Imperial religions and the academies"

For the purpose of this article these random samplings are suggestive of a social reality that chastises anyone who does not fit into a particular box that they were designed to fit into.

In the ARTS :

Who Killed DADA?

Dada is dead. Dada is dead because it has become Art. Nada is the revival of the lost spirit of Dada, it's purpose is to undermine "Art", its function is to deface all existing techno-fascist propaganda images, to declassify, to devalue and to disintegrate pop culture. Nada puts life in first place and Art in last place.

Nada aims to dismantle the disease establishment media monopoly. It is the ego less pacifist resistance to the mind Fk machine of Big Sugar, Big Caffeine, Big Booze, Big Cocaine, Big Pharma, and the mother of them all BIG OPIUM.

Very few people actually understand the true meaning of the word ''Dada." We see the word in our Art History books. Actually, it is a word, like "God," which means anything and everything to anyone who wants to exploit it for whatever purpose.

There has been a proliferation of "dada kitsch" which is void of any intelligent content or critical commentary.. in fact, our whole "junk culture" is rife with it.

Art makes blue chip consumer fetishes. One of the major functions of international Propaganda Art (with a capital A) is to create value out of "baked air" so that these pieces of junk can be used for underground money laundries similar to diamonds, gold, human organs, and crypto currencies.

Originally, the true Dadaists and the Surrealists created a clear denunciation of the bourgeoisie* as displayed in the photo montages of Hoch, Grosz, Heartfield and the Berlin Dadaists. The issue is further complicated by a tragically misguided anarchic-syndicalist use if the word "Nada", which is more a kind of ethical nihilism or Zen Buddhist rebuttal.

Later, Nada was a pseudo-nihilist poetry movement in the 1970s. These co-opted media blips, flash and die like firefly lights in the summer night but the critique they gave rise to degenerated into New York "Pop" kitsch, BDSM, and mind f'"k junkie culture, "Neo Dada" and Modem Art.

In the words of Marshall McLuhan "Radical creativity is a threat to the status quo, it will be marginalized, quarantined, homogenized ,and then cloned."

...there is probably six or seven more volumes of this ... perhaps 6000 pages of dictation ... all in draft form ...unedited

...unpublished ..probably cost 60K just to do the preliminary editing ...certainly we are seeking a publisher or co-publisher ...getting it out there for social change is the whole point ...even though i am an advocate of the abolition of copyright and patent law in favor of taxation of the technology (of communications etc.) for guaranteed annual income for all ... i still use the "all rights reserved" thing in the vain attempt to protect the integrity of the work ...in the past i have had most of my material "marginalized, quarantined, homogenized and then cloned"... socioeconomic sanctions whatever i guess ...by the time it gets to "the market" it is "fluff"... in my experience however it is pointless anyway to litigate intellectual property v. the multinationals and the rough stuff they do not want the public to see, never sees the light of day...in any case we still have what is left of the the oral tradition but it is dying fast.. i will think positively today and see only the good. Today we are going to talk about the point system of designing with dialogue a process called Dotmocracy in its used in the designing with dialogue study forum the idea is linked to the historical construct of the Agora - the public square, forum, or marketplace of the ancient Greeks ..that idea of the Agoura was a that group of citizens would get together in Greece and have a debate on the issues of the day and have a democratic decision as to what needed to be done about these things so it's a system of history democracy that's been used in the school systems to describe the roots of our democratic system. That it was based on this Greek idea of democracy that is the way we were taught in don't you remember, basically that they had a Democratic "democracy" and that our system of democracy is based on on the Greek system. This Greek system, it is implied in the process of the system of "dotmocracy" in our designing with dialogue forum... It is based on on this tradition of the Agoura's, to de discussed on September 8th at the DWD at OCAD. We are going to be talking about this system as it were a deterant to the of global bullying of design, where everybody in the group will be filling Page 1 ics and Human Ecological Recovery - Design or De-Design_ RE_ Prioritizing InfoOverload - VFU_ThinkTank out a form and putting their opinions on a scale of of one to 10 as to what their feelings about whatever particular issue and then those points will be all gathered together and then, from that statistical data, there will be able to be a pie chart, a graphical diagram created to indicate what the group conscience is, so to speak, on any particular issue. I wrote previously about this idea, that in primitive societies or not primitive but in and in pre-antediluvian high-tech societies they had this system of a pyramid above the cube, that what was the higher arcana and the cube iteslf, was the lower arcana. The cube represents you could say the base or mass conglomorate of the wage slaves, the proletariat in other words mass of society, the world so to speak and above it was the were the gods and the emperors and the demigods in the courtesans and the designers and the priests and scientists who what ever you want to call them. I have written that in spite of all of this, the populations, overpopulated themselves and the end result was the deluge, wether this was one that was ordained by the gods, or against the people, or designed by the Agoras I have no idea exactly, but I'm sure that there was probably some sort of a human folly involved with this this flood in the first place and now the system is still pretty well and affect because it lends itself to system of a pyramid you know with Pharaoh or the Furrer at the top lends itself to this Imperial industrial agendas and it makes it more "efficient" in terms of what it Ellul talks about in terms of the impunity of mechanical efficiency of technology, to have this organization at the top basically designing and by way of design exploiting this cube at the bottom and of course when you have huge artificially induced populations the larger the populations, the division between the top and the bottom becomes more impenetrable, inside the firewall so that the people who are consumers and wage slaves and so on do not have any way of interacting with, or voting on directly what's coming down the pike from the top, because those at the top of the pyramid, or the vortex or if you remember was talking about the film Zardoz in which had this idea of the vortex and the people living in there very lovely communities, while on the outside, in the hinterlands, horsemen soldiers were out there exterminating everybody and these people inside of the vortex were living in these beautiful pristine, provincial calm communities and and living basically eternally. So this isolation and devision of vampire and host communities is also portrayed by HG Wells, "The Tmie Machine", also has a very similar image, where he talks about people or t worm like mutations living under the ground who basically use the people living above the ground as has hosts, their food source to be able to feed themselves. Did you get the picture? So that basically is a critigue of the possibility of the corruption and abuse of the Agoura process. On the other hand I would say that I don't support a mob rule system as per the critique that others have put forward, this idea of a tyranny of majority, where you have a whole society, the cube, that is to say the lower arcana, basically making the decisions and if these people have been now turned into idiots and morons with chemical addicitions and nutritional deprivation and mediated into stupidity,without any understanding or awareness of even the central concepts of any platform, of Page 2 ics and Human Ecological Recovery - Design or De-Design_ RE_ Prioritizing InfoOverload - VFU_Think-Tank basically creating a tyranny of mob rule, which is the other extreme. All right, now first of all I think it's important to address this whole business of what we understand as democracy, or what is or is not a democracy and where we get our ideas from about democracy and this is business of democracy and Western civilization started with the Greeks. First of all it is not really true, our American society and the French Revolution, I think were historically inspired by the democracies of Iriquois nations and I think also that Iriquois nations inspired movements like the Puritans with their abandonment of the Churchism Fetishes and all these outward trappings, the stained-glass windows and so on, so forth and getting back to into spiritual basics, simple launch and sitting in a circle like twelve step programs and having the elders discuss what's needed to be discussed and then you are coming to a in terms of the pure democracy. If there is some golden mean or solution to the problem, I like the idea of the pre British flexible cast system in India and of course the British enforced the polarization of this caste system which was prior to the British rule not totally void of upward mobility or downward mobility, but they created this iron grid cast system for the purpose of exploitation, out of the concept of what is called the Purusha and concept of the Purusha is that the society is basically like a human body, at the top you have the head the Brahmins and below the shoulders and arms of the Kshatria and below you have read the feet which are the working people and so on so forth. Now the very simple principle there is that if the society has governance in this way, the feet are just as important as the head and if you don't take care of the feet, if you have your own problems with your feet you know that they're going to infect and affect the whole body. Right?

Just as sure that they will have an affect on the whole body, is as much that they are just as important as the eyes and ears and the brain itself. Everything has to be holistically integrated end-and working functionally for everything to work functionally, otherwise the body breaks down, it is in disease mode and neither does the brain work properly, nor the feet worked on nor the heart work, nor anything else works and so I think that we need to start looking at the society of designers, and what their position is and where their priorities lie, in this question of the Agoura and apply some of these other ancient traditions. Also I like to think of other exemplary systems we can study here, and on a small tangent here, of the recovery of the Perusha principle in the Servadya land reform movements in India and the numerous other victories of the Simon Weil's Revolution Theology and of the progress of the Anarco Syndicalists in Spain, who basically were able to organize without imperial agendas and the pure democracies that are found working very well in the 12 Step programs of today as being exemplary of democracies that work, that are functional, that have been very successful without any governmental or industrial Imperial agendas and I would like to see also the ancient traditions of designing with dialogue examine for the wealth that can be gained, from these different models, as a maybe applied to design with dialogue. Historically In terms of the design and the problem with the Agoras was at the time where Socrates was being interrogated and had to commit suicide and basically "the poets" of that day, not like the egoistic drivelllers of today, were actually the thinkers of that day, the creative architects of the future... People, the people are right now put on meds because they are labeled attention deficit, because they Page 3 ics and Human Ecological Recovery - Design or De-Design_ RE_

Prioritizing InfoOverload - VFU_ThinkTank are like creative psychopaths, they move from one idea to the next, to the next, they're divergent thinkers. These are the people that are the threats to the staus guo of the tyranny. So they needed to have a series of Plato's "write it down" ...the impregnable lexicon of what Ellul calls "orthopraxy". And on this note I'd like to mention also that I did this writing on the pathology of power addicition and domination and submission,recently about JR Saul's term the "dictatorship of reason" or rather more appropriately the "dictatorship of rationalization" and the rationalization in our society, that governs, seems to govern everything, is this business of the corporate bottom line. Are you still following me? In other words there is a scientism, that is employed to all science, all technology has to conform to the agendas of the corporate sector, all think tanks and so on, have to basically be organized in such a way so that they deliver profits to the to the shareholders. There is no question about whether or not a patient's health is the most important thing, the question is only whether or not a Medicare system can be re-vamped in order for there, not to be preventative healing, or so that there would be actual healing in society rather than increase profit margins for pharmaceutical companies and so on. There's no questions asked about, to know how we can improve our health by getting rid of the anti-nutrients and toxins out of our diets, that are at the cause of 80% of our societys trauma and disease. so these are pyramids the top of the cubes, lend themselves to a fascist or a despotic system of efficient design, which is very efficient and this is the word that Jaques Ellul, in the book "The Technological Society" and "Propaganda". He uses the term "efficiency" as in this manner... The technologies become more and more efficient because they're actually serving the corporate sector, the bottom line, but that doesn't mean they're becoming efficient in terms of design in the sense of being more usable or more health giving, or more sane. They become efficient in the sense only that they conform to the Imperial, or industrial agenda, by making sense to the stock holder. I propose that in terms of design with dialogue, this forum, that these alternative methods of analysis be incorporated into the points system of dotmocracy. Into these grafts and so that they are more representative of the actual issues and that the priorities be on humanistic ones, rather than materialistic wants and this is a very long question. So I needed to submit this in terms of e-mail, or some other form because, I will wouldn't be able to articulate it there at this length, in the actual forum itself. Which is another problem, as Postman points our in "Entertaining Ourselves to Death" of our democracies today are not based on long dialogues and the people expressing their opinions were also lumped together and we have to Twitter each other in order to be able to express ideas and so on so forth and of course of our ideas are rough and unhuned ...missing a posting? An agricola is not a senator and so forth, ideas that are not manicured with rhetorical flourishes, get bumped off the the "professional" blog pages, an prime example of this "marginalization...". That is is a good example. On this project so I think in terms of this is a design with dialogue again and it needs to be a matter of designing a way in which peoples ideas can be more interactive not integrated, that is to say submits queries and letters and opinions and so on to each other and to be open to discuss and debate these things. Before coming to a conclusion, as to what their opinions are, they need to be informed of Page 4 ics and Human Ecological Recovery - Design or De-Design_ RE_ Prioritizing InfoOverload - VFU_ThinkTank the information on any subject and not to on the other hand to have to succumb to information overload. But at least to have the key issues presented in any argument. Case in point the knub of my argument about population control and how the populations are artificially escalated by enforced procreation for increased explotation, by way of artificial ignorance about the use of herbal birth control that was the universal practice of indigenous cultures world wide, is a very good example of this. Where neither pro-choice, pro-life is informed of the priciples of natures own procreation hygeine and neither one of these camps have the critical information about herbal birth control at their disposal so that they can't make a clear decision about anything, because they are not informed of all the points. Whereas there is a dross of information about all kinds of old other things that are part of the consummer fetish profiteering agenda, there's virtually none about emmenagogues. So I think there is a danger of the corruption of the agoras by tyrants. I'm not saying that this particular forum "designing with dialogue" is in some sort of conspiracy of tecnocratic elite top-down hierarchical organization that's posturing to be represented as a democracy. Only that we need to be vigilant, becaues we are all in fact dependent on the matrix of Galbraith's "New Industrial State" so much so that for the sake of our own economic survival we may be more inclined to bias our values in terms of "efficiency" and in favour of the professional peer pressure and lose contact with our own ethical sensibilites. Not posturing anyway, not a hierarchical but I think basically when I look at the Internet and I see this a hierarchical structure of the way educators are being corralled into into agendas and fit into the corporate sellout society.In fact over all I fail to see how our addictive society at larg is not a hierarchical structure that is basically just posturing as a democracy. In terms of de-schooling i am arguing that if the corporations actually are in the business of creating these wage slave, in debted consumer clones, on the education assembly line, then they should be prepared to pay these people a minimum wage to take their courses and there should be at the very minimum free education and a guaranteed livable income based on the taxation of the technology that displaces them. so on so forth... My intent here, is not to act like the augusti circus clown disrupting the show, but basically to opening up this question for consideration ...t this time i need not take it any further...but to conclude: This study is not uploaded as an MP3 or iPodCast because ...like the grass roots we have to live with dial-up access right now and so you know which media is not happening because of the lower sectors of the society cannot present their arguments because of economic sanctions, or socioeconomic restrictions and so on and they have a difficult time articulating, so what happens is they become "...marginalized, quarantined homogenized and then cloned..." and the end result is that they're basically not being represented. This i think is the opportunity and primary mandate of the designer to represnt and articulate for his community and not to dictate meaning to it. In this, like the people who were walking around with holes in their genes in the 60s to protest materialism and by the 90s these "holes in the genes" Page 5 ics and Human Ecological Recovery - Design or De-Design_ RE_ Prioritizing InfoOverload - VFU_ThinkTank were being sold by Gap for $800.a pair. So that their method of the message, the teeth of the argument are removed and the concept is just basically the outer shell, the symbolism of the New Age religiosity is turned into metaphysical kitasch. Whatever Is there about but the content and the difficult quintessential essence, has been removed. I can see this "process" happening very clearly with this business of taking statistical information of a very select group inside of a vortex of its administrators, as I can see this happening within demographics where particular elites in the society make decisions based on demographic surveys, based in turn on statistics that are provided by electoral roll of members when they show, they demonstrate populations in their society is to yonge or too old. There's nobody that's has actually anywhere near zero population growth. By what they were arguing these demographer, demographic scholars were arguing, was that there was a lowering of the population in Europe during the 20th century and they are also arguing that this is the result of "education" (indoctrination) and this is the result of all kinds of other issues the are the result of "progress in technology" like the public use of soap, so now we look at these graphs of population decline in Europe and we see however only a very small slice of the big picture, because the big picture is the global picture of "the demographic J" and all though the populations may appear to be lowering in Europe, they are certainly doing the exact opposite in the rest of the world. As if Europe is somehow a apart from the rest of the planet inside of this vortex the populations are going down, but the reality is that on the outside of the vortex there is an ocean rising and a tsumnami of population and that is the problem with the system of having the pyramid and the Agoura living in isolation or segregated from the rest of the cube which is the world and such was the problem in the high tech societies that existed befor our last ice age. The question is, can we learn anything from our pre-histories especially from the histories that were not written with the imperial agenda in mind? g~k~ Aloha Peter: Welcome back from

Analysis of Disease Establishment Media Techniques Media Three Times ISSN: 0316-1447 SN#: 241129 I sing in the picture window sunshine and I was thinking about how nice it would be to have a tablet to work with, but then it occurred to me that I can do voice to text on this old laptop so I put it on the TV table and looked it up and it's working very well thank you HP. For longtime, actually for over 35 years I have been writing about and setting up webpages for media addicts in I have been dealing with the issue from the time of the 70s when I was basically addicted to watching television and film. Actually I remember this is the only way I could get any escape when I was living at home with my family, I would come home from school and immediately turn on the television set along with my junk food and watch spy films/movies. This day I'm still not very far ahead with recovery because I keep having relapses. I use the argument that I am studying cultural anthropology and propaganda and two years ago, actually it's now almost 3 years ago I went on a daily show and I got angry about covid fascism, that and will weaken my immune system and ended up for two years later in bed with. It's been a year now and I've almost entirely recurred, however it be addiction to adrenaline that I've been attempting to deal with by working the program of workaholics anonymous seems to be more than never clear in my understanding as they will kill our little disease will list showed up a great portion of my life. I have been in the last four or five years will making notes of difference technological advances that are promoted in various television and video programs. I understand that my love of real to Reel tape recorders came from watching spy movies in the 60s. I understand that they spy movies now are marketing very heavy weapons, all artillery, suits of armor and headgear along with all kinds of explosives, through an entire generation of young people. My argument for watching the videos is that I'm analyzing the propaganda and observing all of the implants for, and other things sucrose, petrochemical products and automobiles, motorcycles and motorcycle gear handle a lot of this new designs are dark fascism. Not to mention the violence in the programs. As a practicing seeker head meditator, deep thinker I follow the concept of the three monkeys will, here no evil see no evil speak no evil. I know that peace military-industrial mind altering products are designed to create a society of addicts who can go out and kill and maim with impunity. Obviously it seems to go out of my way to look at the "evil", although I understand it to be disease generating products that work well with the disease establishment agendas. Having said all that, knowing full well that I don't know when I'm tired and that that is a trigger for my adrenaline, workaholic addiction. So I have resorted again to attempting to shut down the machinery by 8 PM. Before I was setting it at 9 PM, but that is really pushing it. It took me quite a number of weeks before I finally got the system working, with many tries I finally managed to turn off the large monitor. Then I would be watching the film, it would cut off at 8 PM and I would want to watch the rest of it, so I would just switch over to the laptop. Yesterday I set up such an application that turns off the laptop at 8 PM also. While it waits to be seen how long these devices to protect myself from my own obsessive compulsive behavior are going to last but they are steps in the right direction in any case. At least I'm not watching movies till 12 or three in the morning. I've also installed several items that make it possible for me to enjoy my environment more here. One was a lawn chair that I brought inside and put it into the sunshine and coming from the pit picture window and on sunny days I can turn on the space heaters and lay there and get a lot of vitamin D. The other huge investment that is going to pay off dividends is my treadmill. Now I can go for a walk even in the coldest weather, whenever I feel like walk. Whenever I've been sitting in the chair too long and my legs start telling me I need to stop and stretch and take a little walk I can do it now. Now I have systematically gone through the industrial product of the so-called entertainment industry and gone through all the years and all stars filmography's and attempted to find any film that contained the latest technological products marketed mostly by adventure movies and spy films. I finally have gone through right to the bottom drags and I have been noting and studying the various patterns of the propaganda techniques that alter the public mind. For many many months I've been attempting to actually write about it, so I am grateful that I'm finally putting something down on that machine here. I have observed the constant repetition of the same patterns. Militarized police forces and military goon squads bashing down doors and entering buildings illegally and with force terminating anyone that interferes with their "work". Automobile chases, over and over and over again the same pattern of driving at speeds that would be classified as dangerous to health and sanity, and the piling up of destroyed automobiles, obviously with the drivers and the passengers on board, with impunity. Along with this there is be obsession with the automobile itself will and "speed". Of course this is as well as the others a way of triggering the adrenaline flow. We do know that one shot of adrenaline turns the bloodstream to acid and the effects of that technique is that it shuts off the miniscule blood vessels that deliver oxygen and nutrients to the brain and this causes the shut down of the two frontal lobes of the brain which are the higher brain functions that include our ethical precepts, "I love my mother, the 10 Commandments" and so on. The constant violence, grueling fist fights to the death, that employ every kind of instruments from knives to scissors to shovels, whatever they can get their hands on. Not to mention every kind of weapon imaginable, machine guns, handguns, cylinders of gas, grenade launchers and antitank missile launchers. This pattern of course includes every conceivable method of torture, bondage and humiliation. Of course finally there is the never ending supply of implants for sucrose, caffeine, sugar loaded pastries of all kinds, junk food and of course alcohol and pharmaceutical pills and drugs of every kind. Lines of cocaine being snorted up, opiates being shot up, pill popping and mixing alcohol with other drugs. There is also the repetitive complaining and about how relationships do not work along with the necessity to isolate as a spy or a police officer, broken marriages promiscuity and sexual innuendos not to mention pornographic implants of all kinds as well. We know that when the two frontal lobes of the brain are gone there is no protection and a human operates from the limbic column which is the reptilian brain, that has absolutely no comprehension of ethics or respect for human life, or for that life any living thing at all. So where are in fact creating and training a society of addicts and killers. I have observed in been aware of this for technological formation and manipulation of public hive mind for decades. I'm also aware of the fact that I was brought up with this indoctrination from the earliest age. I'm aware of the fact that my need for these toxic products is for our somehow "shutting down my mind" and to deal with loneliness. Obviously there are better ways to achieve this end i.e.: meditation, meetings so on. It is also important to find other activities that will replace the constant bombardments of junk media. Here's always a desire for the adrenaline addict to get his/her fix. But we also have 12 step programs that enable us to accept the fact that we are totally powerless and here's the important part and ego depletion that allows us to surrender to another way of being and seeing. I wish you all another 24 hours freedom. View publication stats

Smart Power in the Question of Nobility

The term balanced of power is been replaced by a new idea that of smart power. It is always been the belief that we have maintained in our histories and our religions that the strongest should rule. However the actual reality of our history is that for centuries there were no kings and only the guidance of the wisdom of the elders, some have called them the philosopher Kings. Along with the idea that might is right came the belief that those who have the might are the nobility of our societies. The forbidden question of whether or not might is right was not asked because those in power maintain their status quo with sadistic domination of the societies. Obviously the question that presents itself should be, how is this oxymoronic logic have anything to do with true nobility. Obviously it does not. And never has. Yet might has always been right. This is been true until about the beginning of the 20th century when with the end flux of scientific methods we have been able to create weapons of mass destruction at the expense of over half of the earnings of our people for the support of our military-industrial religionist complexes. And because of this scientific questionable enlightenment as it is called the series of revolutions have won some support for the families of labor. Although the realities of military conscription, mercenary or not, remain the same, and absolute submission to the status quo. So it has been the earnings of labor that cover the cost of our military and police states to maintain the basic idea that might is nobility. It is also the exploitation of labor that produces weapons of mass destruction, as well is the weapons of mass distraction. In short the public pays for the tools and war, whether they are telecommunications technologies. Increasingly our overpopulated societies demand militarization of police forces, and mass media that teach obedience and program our children that it is okay to make war and to dominate others. This is hardly nobility. Let us look for example, for a moment, at the cost of creating a knight in the Middle Ages. It would take the resources of an entire village to cut down an entire forest of trees to be able to generate enough heat to produce one suit of armor. Again this is the public creating a knight. With the suit of armor the "noble" would the able to kill and torture with impunity. Again how is this nobility? The original argument for this arrangement was that the "nobility" would protect the farmer from attacks from "enemies". And the enforcement of this arrangement seem to justify the extraction of taxes, labor and conscription in the event of war. Although the wars were endless. Usually followed by famines and not to mention with artificially induced overpopulation's increase of disease needing to very short lives. In ancient times before Imperial systems started to manifest themselves with the support of opium and other substances, "spice trade" profits; societies and elders would teach and practice nobility training in their mystery schools. It was based on the transition from mind to mind of the wisdom of centuries of the societies science, of the use of all flora and fauna. A new the properties of all things and the apprentice might take 20 to 40 years to learn these sacred science's. The wise elders was never elevated to the position of rule and domination the rest of the society. He was selected and or ordained by the love of the people who respected his or her wisdom. It was there wisdom that enabled them to diverge the energies of brutes and bullies. The game of kings and queens with their war without end changed radically with the introduction of technologies during the Civil War in the United States. First mass genocide was practiced by Gen. Sherman and this was the beginning of the idea of mass destruction in the first and second and now the third world war. In short, now that we have arrived at Mutual Assured Destruction, labor has always had to pay for the nobility to profit make war. Good call this symbolically as the four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, artificially induced overpopulation, resulting in famine, disease and the most profitable pain delivery system of all War. Let Us Look Again at the Logic That "Nobility", has the right to demand the time, labor, property and lives of the public for protection from "enemies". it should be quite clear that weapons of mass destruction are simply tools of genocide and that if indeed we have reached the point of total mass destruction of all life, how is our "nobility" protecting society in any way at all. S.P.R. Charter in his prophetic works as put it very simply, society does not think that overpopulation is the threat, but indeed it is the greatest threat because the military-industrial complex would use it as an excuse for total war. Further, he adds that it is virtually impossible for humanity to ever reach the nearest star because it's thousands and thousands of light years from here, but this propaganda of space travel has only one purpose to establish military superiority and space. Again, how is total mass surveillance protecting the public from anything. In the beginning, with the attack of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the illusion that there was any possibility that there could be any profit at all from nuclear weapons created an entirely new enterprise of searching for other methods, biological, chemical and now artificial intelligence. In the 50s computers were already being used to control nuclear silos. With increased computer speed and satellite communications we are now in a global wired world. It has been very clear since the 70s that the world no longer has political boundaries and that everything depends on the traffic in intelligence through digital methods. The illusion that the so-called Internet would open up the possibility that everyone could talk to everyone and it would assist in creating peace in the world. This was a "Trojan Horse" enabling public relations to sell the horrors of the use of computers during the Vietnam War. The illusion is continually perpetuated by the weapons of mass distraction. And yet the same equation remains that this new "nobility" will protect society. People are still thinking that we are going to have a third world war, it seems obvious that we already had the third world war under the absurd rubric of calling it "a Cold war" and with the embryonic use of controlling weapons of mass destruction with computer technologies and with the recent development of the Stuxnet Computer worm, we are now well advanced in the fourth world war, which of course includes the experimentation with bacteriological and chemical warfare. Yet the public globally is still carrying the burden, intellectual and otherwise, of maintaining this "nobility... for our own protection". It seems more likely that this "nobility", even though the term now applies to anyone who has the power of wealth, i.e.: drug dealers, pharmaceutical companies, petrochemical corporations, weapons manufacturers, mercenary armies, Imperial religionists and media people. This conglomerate of plutocrats, that posture as our society's guardians, instead of protecting us, has sadistically turn humanity into mindless zombies. So the term "smart power" is more suitable than the term "balance of power" because it is now and absolute global totalitarian fascist monolithic disease establishment. It is unlikely that this malevolent status quo is going to protect society from anything at all. View publication stats

Energy Base Currency In a Benevolent Technocracy

Energy Base Currency In a Benevolent Technocracy .

We have already established that the universe is not composed of geometric formulas for Adam but rather in terms of beyond reduction-ism vibration/sound. Of course one would assume that there is a universal cosmic mind that can manipulate this energy and create our incredibly complex world. I was in my late teens when I came up with the concept of Universal Mind Energy Matter (U.M.E.M.), It seemed a more likely reality than some bearded divinity but nevertheless the design theory of the universe has been with us since at least the Middle Ages. In any case it appears that this designing element is obviously beyond matter. And therefore also beyond human comprehension. Now it seems very clear that this kind of thinking was rendered in practically every spiritual teaching Whether You Call It the Buddha Nature or the TAO, for the life force, it remains a mystery beyond comprehension, but we as humans, sentient beings have actually very little business trying to figure it out but in all practical terms we live in the manifestations mystery and there seems to be very little we can do about it. The ancients referred to it as the law of the solar wheel i.e.: the harmony of the spheres, the changes of the seasons, night and day, hot and cold, alkaline/acid. And as mentioned before the ancients were also aware that this sonic universe was not a puzzle that we can solve. Elsewhere we spoke of the reality that the matrix of numbers is not the real world but just an overlay. It is obvious also that the numbers theory is useful and applicable to science, engineering and practically everything else that we hold dear. But it nevertheless falls its own logic that has in most cases very little to do with the order of the universe, or more precisely speaking there is very little respect the value of the very delicate balance of our human ecologies nor of the natural world. With our advanced technology we have numerically painted ourselves into order that there seems to be no escape from. The economic machinery must continue and if we can quote from the motion picture Dune ". The spice (Opium Traffic) needs to keep flowing.". This is an it irreversible but also suicidal machinery and a malevolent fascist technocracy that is supplemented the artificial ignorance generated by mercenary science. In the wake of the depressions in the 30s there were a lot of conceptual alternatives such as very shades and colors of socialism and yet all of them were based on the same numerical value system and currencies. There was however a very unique and little understood alternative called Technocracy Inc., this movement that I would call a benevolent technocracy had an actual very large successful lifespan. Unfortunately it could not be realized in the existing global monetary/economic structure. And within a short time it disappeared into insignificance. Nevertheless perhaps now that we've gone through a number of marginal apocalypses as a result of the very profitable ". The four Horsemen of the Apocalypse..." i.e.: overpopulation, famine, disease and the greatest pain delivery system of all the three letter word WAR. And of course this monetary system is based on numerical equations and algorithms to the point of absurdity. The system of rapacious exploitation, slavery and junk consumerism has created a numerical virtual reality world that has absolutely nothing to with nature at all nor does it respect or honor the checks and balances of the law of the solar wheel that is our sentient reality, life itself. The system implied by a benevolent technocracy would remove politicians, warmongers and advertisers who know nothing of the real world order. And it would replace them with true scientists, engineers and technicians. In short our government of technocrats. And in keeping with the idea of sonic universe the currency would be based on the principle of energy. At first impression this would seem absolutely absurd, however we do have the technology and the confrontational power to be able to use numerical and algorithmic measurements to allow us to establish exactly how much energy is allocated for all necessary human requirements. It seems like a totally colorless world, no religionist, no philosophical gyrations, in a film about technocracy in its prime the documented a gathering of technocrats that arrived in exactly the same model of grey car. The technocratic symbol is a symbol of the TAO a Ying and Yang with the colors and orange red and gray. However if we look at them malevolent technocracy we live in today with the high-rises of warehouse humanity and the office buildings the work-spaces of these workers we see a very real picture of a very black world. On the other hand if in reality we had real science we would be able to establish that the real problem is overpopulation and remove the artificial ignorance that has destroyed the ancient knowledge of natural procreative hygiene in favor of opium dollars. The Babylonian Woe. In the 80s as I was progressively moving away from the sadomasochistic versions of DADAism propagated by the weapons of mass distraction and returning to a humanistic Zen/Taoist Nada. And started printing with a rubber stamp very large pikas of the word NADA and it was a very simple matter of stamping all currency with this liberation from the slavery of dependence on a total dictatorship of media/money. I called those currency issues NADA Notes. And at the time I could not see any difference between the governments printing and my own. For one thing at that time it was the beginning of the embryonic development of crypto-currencies, this was taking the departure from reality and tool an entirely different realm resembling a casino. The entire structure was based on human greed. Although that is not too far different from the existing currencies to date, all of them are entirely dependent on a form of gambling and speculation which has absolutely nothing to do with the real world except for the fact that without this currency the masses of slave/addicts would starve to death and simply perish without their need for addictive substances. This is what a malevolent technocracy generates, a mercenary science based on the religionist idea that gold is sacred and the symbolic representation of this gold is in the form of paper currency even though in the present time it is not backed by any substance whatsoever. Like art it is simply "baked air". Unfortunately this necessary deception has become the universal religion the religion of technology i.e.: media/money. The idea of benevolent technocracy on the other hand would measure precisely the needs of every single human in terms of energy, it would be an universally practiced guaranteed livable income and this of course would include the necessity for shelter. With the scientific return to the ancient practice of natural procreative hygiene the reduction of populations would, as argued in our Underground Information Architecture article, the necessity for warehousing humans and cement boxes with the cable attached that delivers virtual reality programming would become a reality that is not only harmonious with the real world but simply put a beautiful world, with beautiful shelter and pH balanced meals for all. I've always questioned the bastardization of the very essence of philosophy which is the love of wisdom, the love of life itself and all its myriad of sensations, colors and experiences. This is not virtual reality it is the real world order. So it is rather redundant to reiterate the entire thinking of Technocracy Inc., they have left us a very large collection of literature that is available in most university libraries and now also on the Internet. Not too long ago they published a journal and to my knowledge it is still operational. It is our suggestion that the interested parties should very seriously consider the concepts presented by this magnificent, I could say spiritual, movement. Perhaps by the time of the end of the cycle of mercenary greed and the final apocalyptic burning of the planet Earth it will be probably too late to consider these options, it is already probably too late as we speak because, and according to Hopi wisdom, the world ended in 2012 and scientifically speaking it is actually a facts that our global ecological system has been irreparably damaged. So we can put our money into our pipe and smoke it, as in the words of Chief Seattle ". what will you do when you have completely damaged the world, will you be able to eat your money.". Nevertheless even know it's impossible to even consider the alternative, in our world at this time "only the impossible is worth doing". View publication stats very overpopulated extremely highly technological antediluvian society that without a any reasonable doubt were able to use this ultrasonic technology to quarry the gigantic used to build, quite probably a geo-magnetic energy generator and used anti-gravitational systems to move those stones into their precise locations. Of course with our absolute and total obsession with numbers, power and wealth, it will be inevitably the course and the source of funding for this kind of development. What then is there to replace this obsession with geometric and atomic universe numerical computerized problem-solving, it seems to be the only way to arrive at that kind of technology. However it is also clear that there is a kind of hyper-logic that enables the transcendence of this numeric model of the universe and it is precisely this metalogic that enables the kind of clarity to see that, given our currant evidence, that leads one to the conclusion that dispels any "reasonable doubt" and the disaster that increased effects of overpopulation on natural ecology perpetuated the antediluvian disaster then and as Hopi prophecy explained the burning of the planet now. It seems that humans now have not been able to understand the very basic awareness that they are in fact not running the universe but only a part of it. Indeed it is also quite clear that our ancestral wisdom for thousands of years was proscribing overpopulation, it seems that after the trauma they learned some lessons. On the other hand, after flood would leave some some elements of the ecology sufficient for nature to recover, it doesn't seem to be probable that the thing of life will be left to work with after a burning. nada & resonance theory

Problematic scientific dissonance: quantum physics, fractal universe - butterfly effect - chaos theory, et al., resonance theory and sonic theology Already back in pre-Vedic times the concept of Nada Brahma, the unending sound, that idea that all is sound/vibration, was already well established. We have already come a long way through the mud of mercenary scientism to the point when we finally realize that the universe is not composed of geometric forms, or numbers, or atoms. Back when I was institutionalized in the so-called educational systems, I already had an abhorrence for the principle that mathematics is all. I was already at no heretic and understood that the natural world is not about numbers but about vibration and resonance. It was not acceptable to allow your intuitive mind to understand what was obvious centuries ago. The mercenary sciences maintain the rigor of numerical formulas, simply because there is no way of monetizing any product of that science without numbers. It is an absolute tragedy now that even though some have had the courage to propose alternative theories, quantum physics at all, and seemed to be gaining acceptance in the sciences. Again it seems to me that this is very oxymoronic, for the simple reason that all, I would say practically all of physics as I understand is based on numerical logic and that therefore is still relying entirely on the use of advanced mathematical principles. It also seems strange to me that this new science is uncannily resembling scholasticism of middle-age imperial religiosity. It is simply not true in those times that system did not generate considerable technological advances, not to mention the sciences Of the manipulation of the mind. For half a century I've been advocating educational reform and what I call applied media ethics for human ecological recovery, or ethics in technology/media. The term Technetics was coined back in the middle of the 20th century. Educators like Postman, Ellul, McLuhan and others concerned concerned with restoring the health of the hive mind or leaders in the idea that there's the "education" and not "indoctrination". The contemporary most recent version is has been called "Tech-No-Ethics" (My translation) in other words, Technology and no ethics, and except for those ethics that serve the bottom line of the corporate military interests. In the Middle Ages they used to call that black magic or in modern terms you could say black science. I could spend days and weeks lecturing on this subject, the keyword was applied ethics and technology. An animal that does not exist. Consequently we have is standard mathematical equations of the universe and now Fractal And other Equally pectoral rhetorical flourishes, And other postulations In the New academic media It appear to be a knew science of religion. Actually in terms of Resonance theory that is very close to the ancients sonic religion of Nada Brahma. There's been an excellent work on sonic theology and it reveals the the incredible capability of humans come up with all kinds of mysterious practices that are hardly scientific. I And where do we draw the line draw between physics and what was condemned as metaphysics? Nevertheless it probably would be advantageous to study the work: the science of mind. I think one of the leave most important and least respected minds of the 20th century was S. R. Charter, I very well respected astrophysicist that pointed out that there is no way that humans are going to go to other planets for the simple reason that the nearest star is hundreds of light-years from Earth. They also stated very clearly that the only advantage of indoctrination in the science of Star Wars with for the military control of space. He also pointed out that, and this is true science and true Mathematical logic, because of the Overpopulation that did not appear to be a threat back in the 60s will one day be considered by the military-industrial complex has a major threat necessitating the use of weapons of mass destruction and parenthetically the use of mass distraction, with the very advanced plug-in drugs. Not to mention all the other drugs like sucrose at all. Well indeed it is true the universe is vibration, but what the ancients knew that we seem to have forgotten is that the wisdom of humans, if any, that is already informed by the two frontal lobes of the brain, connected to you could say, And science of mind terminology, the cosmic mind, simply cannot Comprehend Even a fraction of a percentile the very basics of what life is all about. Ergo because of distorted ego perceptions we now have a planet that we have systematically destroyed with all of our mathematics and all of her black science. Needless to say also that many other thinkers who were thinking out of the box and were heretical to the existing pollution of true science were classified as terrorists, heretics and so on. Now in the Middle Ages it was a simple matter of just torturing and burning at the stake these upstarts that would not comply with the imperial religionist agendas. So now we have a new and amazing religionist science at war with the imperial religionist mind moulding machinery. A society of people addicted to drugs likes to process, adrenaline, not to mention all the others, that are walking around in an acid bloodstream which automatically shuts off the two frontal lobes of the brain. In short a society that can no longer think, let alone think out-of-the-box. P. S.:... It's always been one of the practices that I have respected of not using the "I", and Zen/Taoist practice is called small mind, now it appears both quantum physics and metaphysics belong in the realm of what they called the big mind. The critical task is to connect with the big mind in order to even begin to think, or what they call meditate, contemplate on anything other than our distorted ego perceptions of reality. My apologies for using the I word. View publication stats reply to a~n~ Underground Info Architecture explained cont'd RE: TECHNETHICS & Human Ecological Recovery - Virtual Free University (Media Free Times press) Bcc M.F.T. ViFrU Think Tank Aloha a~n~: 12 editions Yes, we replied 12 editions a correction to your query, not 14 editions that sounds incredulous of course, when you consider that 4 million words would probably be the equivalent of 570 volumes, at 300 pages each and that being only one 12th of the entire corpus. Although in this day and age, when we hear the news that one airplane knocked down three buildings and that presidential candidates get leaky phones (that s New Speak for you) from security agencies , that we are now under surveillance and then we have no privacy or the the internet is no longer neutral LOL HELLO!!! .as if we didn't know that in the 1950s, well yes we have to laugh to keep from crying . If. for whatever reason you had taken the time to study our foundation course in media ethics, you would see the relevance of using keywords i.e.: the word sucrose pulled up

4 million words of course, but we do have the technology now to cut through information overload, don't we? I mean, if we don't, then how are these security agencies able to process all that data, even with artificial intelligence running at full steam, there still would need to be some kind of human intelligence, in order to make sense of the outputs. So, let's say we have 4 million words times 12 generated, by one author, so let's do the math and see how much it costs to edit and redact just one outspoken whistleblowers opinions. Obviously the cost factors are prohibitive for the individual, but then when you consider that there are 6 billion cell phone users on the planet, so that does not equate as some kind of the threat, does it?... the recording of the sounds or images of someone s mother burping at the dinner table, or Nancy changing diapers even though they make movies out of manufactured heroes, consultants for MIGc, that supposedly deliver leaks personally selected by a MIGc CIO want the public to be paranoid about the artificial ignorance agendas media monopolies of the disease establishment i.e.: fear of surveillance (Big Mother is watching you OMG!!!) = consumerization of VPN and bitcoins. Give me a break!!! how can we ever be normal enough to swallow all that crap hook line and sinker That is not to say that there is no command control communication information C3 I, but that it takes time and money the case of Desert Storm actually it took six months of intelligence gathering to point the smart bombs in the right places. And it is assumed that it would've taken at least 50 years to figure out who the resistance is so that social engineers could gather flocks of "rebels without a clue" at the picket fence during the G 20. For example. In any case hyper intelligent kids like us who have been under surveillance from the first time we did an IQ test are actually owned by them or at least they think they own us, in the sense that they in the words of Marshall McLuhan "marginalized, quarantined, homogenized, and then cloned" the product of radical creativity which is a threat to the status quo. So in that sense of course because 98% of all patents and copyrights are controlled by the military-industrial governmental disease establishment media monopolies (MIGc) i.e. the disease establishment - which is basically the drug cartels big sugar, big salt, big opium big cocaine and so on that control all of the toxic mind control advertising on the planet and therefore manipulate the public mind. There was a resistance to the disease establishment war mongers back in the 60s and our free speech movement was part of that because we realized back then that unless the public has control of the communications then MIGc will control it. So now we have the fruit of our labor turned into what is now the FCC and the CRTC sellout to the corporate communications bandits and there does not seem to be any resistance from the public after 50 years of mind control convincing them that it's okay to pay $0.50 a minute for telephony are $160 a month to watch the boom tube on your computer and see the latest hockey game. So what we called the underground press back in the day of active resistance to war mongers as part of the peace movement has been turned into a collection of on microfilm that nobody has access to unless they happen to know somebody who's got a copy somewhere, in some archive out there somewhere. In any case free speech is not pornography, violence, propaganda, indoctrination, these are the antithesis. And the underground is not necessarily the "dark" web but the actual reality of everything that is not mainstream, which is practically anything that is not being exploited to push consumer fetishes, drugs, violence, fear, and war. This, to get back to the actual 4 million words you are questioning, if you were to bother to read the subtext there it says there is a keyword in the keyword is "sucrose" you will notice that if you use your technology to search the body of the text there will only be about 180 hits with that word and of course that would equal about 180 pages of perhaps the first chapter, on media mind control with the drug sucrose . And you can equate that to media ethics and bravo!!! you're doing really well, although you haven't been much of a student lately being busy with what collecting bitcoins, or whatever it is that they're doing out these days. In any case I wasn't being flippant and I believe the power of comedy the deliver truth is in fact something that we practice back in the day when guerrilla theater was permissible in the concentration camps of our megalopolises. We live in a world entirely different from the brave new world out there, with always been living among the savages out here on the fringes of civilization as hyper intelligents: life. In the film Good Will Hunting (a janitor at M.I.T., has a gift for mathematics, but needs help from a psychologist to find direction in his life) Matt Damon gets discovered by MIGc and refuses to sign on, the last scene is of them driving off into the sunset towards the land of Oz, like Dorothy on the yellow brick road (most people don't see the mountains of skulls and bones on both sides of that road). If people actually believe that kind of thing, it always surprises me, once they own you, you don't have to know about it, they just exploit everything. But one thing is very clear, that privacy has been a dead issue for 50 years. The author was reading Carl Jung's essay The Relation of Analytic Psychology to Poetry back when he was in his teens, to about as close as we got to actually getting involved with "shrinks" and there were numerous other anti-psychiatry reads he was doing in order to survive abuse of the so-called education system (indoctrination). But we did survive more or less in one piece after many years of recovery from substance abuse and our voice to text transcripts are about 80% accurate and contain the essence of our thought. The entire corpus of course could never be read but extracts can certainly be published and that is the hope. Back in the 70s we are working with multimedia periodicals now we are working on the concept of artificial intelligence creating The George - a world teacher to teach 6 B. kids the facts of life about human ecological recovery out of all that data. It is not only possible but MIGc has the technology to do it we like to get our hands on it. Some new media funding organization $150,000 US put up for an installation that Internet archives and here our radical creativity is being squeezed into PDF files at LAC BAC because there's no room out there in cyberspace for our stuff apparently. Many case we do have a positive attitude and indeed laughter is good medicine so let's have a chuckle and get on with our day The point is It can be done if MIGc does not do it first. Authors Cheikh Anta Diop Description This comparison of the political and social systems of Europe and black Africa from antiquity to the formation of modern states demonstrates the black contribution to the development of Western civilization. Isbn 13 9781613747452 Year 1988 Love over Power - media virus obstacles to De-Schooling the "rebels without a clue" The cultural evolution will not be broadcast. There has never been a successful slave revolution the American and French revolutions were actions of the bourgeoisie. In short these were power struggles by those with power. Today we have the same continuing war between the "ancient regime" (the right/the blues/ THEY) and the "new scientism" (the left/the greens/"THEM"). The concept that people have power collectively is a sleight-of-hand illusion generated by propagandists to make it appear that there is actually some kind of social change possible. That the impoverished masses can use the "tools of the Masters" successfully against them. Every radical ideological concept has been systematically neutralized in favor of the "corporate agendas" of the MIGC* (Military-Industrial Governmental Disease Establishment Media Monopoly Complex*). The Embryonic Resistance Movements like Taoism, Buddhism, Early Christian Anarchy, Have All Been Corrupted by Imperial Religiosity. If information is power and the public does not have the information in order to deal with the effects of motivational research and how can there be an intelligence resistance? I.e.: For half a century Media Free Times been offering our foundation course in media ethics for human ecological recovery, there have been no takers and no subscribers. Case in point the benchmark test was back in 1972 at the University of California San Jose when we presented our first lectures on what was then part of the free speech movement concept of "public access to public media" entitled the philosophy of communications design that became co-opted by DARPA and turned into a multibillion-dollar advertising scam called "the Internet". In that first class the author made it clear that everyone, all of the 37 students present would not have to complete any assignments, or do any examinations, and did not need to attend but will be given full credit for the course. Only those who are interested in the actual study can return. The next class consisted of only seven students, significantly one of them was a friendly member of the intelligence community. Generally most people are primarily interested in acquiring accreditation for their investment rather than retaining any "learning" and radical "academic freedom" when fully expressed will automatically invite and attract the participation of members of the MIGC. Today we have just a handful of friends who have shared the work of Ellul and we will attempt to analyze this instructional material "designed" for "the left wing". On other occasions we have critiqued the pseudo-conspiracy theory formulas of "the right". To understand fully the base of criticism here we must establish that both the right and left our basically just propaganda paradigms, that is to say there is no "right" and "left" there is just THEY and THEM (the MIGC*) and the "means of production" is the three letter word WAR ; for these power mad addicted psychopaths that worship DOG (DOG = GOD Gold, Oil and Drugs). For those of us who've been studying the propaganda machinery for this many years we are by now intuitively equipped to separate the "fake news" from anything that resembles actuality. I have chosen for this study session to critically analyze this particular work, the book and the documentary and later the TV series entitled The Corporation, because it presents itself as a primary example of the highest levels of sophistication of media virus and greenwashing. The na ve average citizen will not even be able to discern that it is in fact propaganda of the highest order. Any rebuttal or attempt of criticism will result in "oh you must be one of them capitalist pigs a corporate whore". False! We have been the only true resistance, attempting to decentralize the MIGC, via our underground media architecture, de-schooling and de-design. We are not expressing opinions here, but arguments based on many decades of systematic research. Needless to say WE is a very small number. So assuming that you've actually read the book, no one does, why bother, there is the documentary and the edutainment of the TV series. A cursory analysis of the design of the media icons/underground superstars of the pseudo-libertarian left, or right, it's hard to tell nowadays because they borrow from each other inverting and perverting as they please. But these actors all have the visual persona stylized apparently on the comic book level by caricaturist's. I will not name any names but will allow the identification of these characters by their markings. There is the roly-poly Clown , son of automobile workers wearing the eternal baseball hat, unshaven and with grease from the twin arches dripping from his mouth talking about "getting off the sofa and going out there and starting the revolution" and it looks like he's been sitting on the couch himself for some centuries. Our original version of the "marginalized, quarantined, homogenized, and then cloned" version of that is the "tranquilizer chair" on I was going to go into details on the others but give up wasting energy on this there is no one in the class but me!!! find it yourself the LAC_BAC is messing up the links good luck with it: http://amicus.collectionscanada.gc.ca/aaweb-bin/aamain/itemdisp? sessionKey=9999999999_142&l=0&d=2&v=0&lvl=1&itm=20615210 I was going to say that the principle of love over power is the essence of our recovery program for media (power) addiction: http://Media Anonymous.org From: admin [mailto:admin@vifru.org] Sent: Sunday, October 23, 2016 3:06 PM To: thinktank@vifru.org Cc: larry.schmidt@utoronto.ca; 'Jones, Peter'; milanseres@praxisdialectic.com Subject: Weighing and measuring your media - time management techniques for recovering media addicts - Underground media architecture versus propaganda - ViFrU media ethics study - Ellul colloquy number 11 Importance: High Weighing and measuring your media time management techniques for recovering media addicts Underground media architecture versus propaganda ViFrU media ethics study Ellul colloquy number 11 I think it's important at the outset to define what we mean by "underground media" as it applies to our concept of "information architecture" which is the new media terminology or rather "new speak" version. Underground media, is the resistance to the mainstream disease establishments military-industrial governmental media monopoly, propaganda machinery. For us, it was part of the resistance to war and dehumanization by technological fascism. In recent decades our inquiry has established that this is not a new thing at all, it has been the embryo of most so-called "spiritual" resistance movements for at least 4000 years. Starting with Taoism and Buddhism, the liberation theology of the ethicist Moses, the spiritual Franciscans and alchemists and other heretics of the Middle Ages, right through to the Kabbalistic vaudevillian's and Berlin Dadaists, up to the peaceniks and seekers of the 60s and now to our own attempts at the restoration of all of these in our nada-ism. Which has evolved via the benevolent anarchy of the 12 step programs into our Media Anonymous world service organization. Wherein, tradition five, presents us with the Taoist concept of simplicity in our endeavors, that is to say individual recovery and emancipation from our addictions to man-made artifice in the form of media fetishes and power addiction. Yet, I would also add, prior to the Imperial agendas epicenters, that started in China and have returned recently returned there, we had many centuries of indigenous natural wisdom teachings, that are also by default now, very much the underground oral traditions. Most of these nations have been destroyed by the Imperial religionist advancements and inquisitions. In previous spoken word transmissions as we do not have the luxury of either elaborate lecture halls, nor the sophisticated student bodies consuming our intellectual offerings and neither the access to the funding nor the distribution capabilities of disseminating any of these, or any way to redact compile index and mount for accessibility We, by default, must proceed as barely intelligible encryptions in the form of blips, fragmented but nevertheless neither spurious nor specious, but dismissed in any and as such by the "marginalization" practice in a million ways on a daily basis by the propaganda of the mainstream with subliminal messages i.e.: "you're not good enough", "we don't have time", "our time is limited because we need a commercial break", "please fill out a form" and finally the "yes no" pi ce de r sistance "we do not accept unsolicited manuscripts" but "please submit an unsolicited proposal". In order to avoid further screed I'm not going to get into the rest of the equation which is " quarantined, homogenized and then cloned" What is important to understand if I can pick up the thread where I was saying in the paragraph above before I went off on a tangent In previous spoken word transmissions, we've described the process of how these underground systems, are systematically co-opted and have been for centuries by what has been referred to by Auguste Compte ” the ancient regime” to quote a New Speak reference How did a college dropout with a history of mental illness [by who s definition] become one of the most influential thinkers of the 19th century? Indeed how did he [Propaganda]? And how did his very accurate description [underground] get turned into what is now called Sociology ? Apparently no one is ever read August Compte and this is the way in which the disease establishment media monopolies, that control 80% to 90% of all copyrights and patents, manipulate our culture and rewrite our histories, in favor of the process of profiteering from human misery, slavery and addictions. So we have this constant ying yang struggle between the forces of light and darkness, or more precisely natural wisdom and man-made artifice. It seems to be the way of the world and those of us who are recovering addicts, now have a way in which we can emancipate ourselves from the bondage of the handlers in the form of the 12 step program of Media Anonymous. It’s interesting that nobody’s ever heard of such a program? In Overeaters Anonymous there is a technique used to avoid compulsive overeating, we weigh and measure our food. We have proposed a similar technique for media. How can we precisely weigh and measure our media? In terms of time management, one of the most important tools that have been established in their use, is prioritizing. So to weigh our media we must have specific goal, or more precisely clearly defined objectives in order to set priorities based on the principle of “first things first”, meaning the most important on top of the list of things to do. In recovery we take coveys planner where he sets up urgent and most important , urgent and not important on the top two quadrants and not urgent but important and not urgent and not important on the bottom quadrants. The urgent and most important is "be here now" in other words connecting with our Higher Power and waiting for instructions is what the next right thing to do is. That means completely clearing our desktop/mind opening our mental day planner and waiting for the good orderly direction of the universe to write into it our marching orders 24 seven. In that way we can actually "weigh" our media in terms of importance, value, quality, necessity and so on. This is a simple process but not an easy one. The difficulty is doing it always from the perspective of the Zen beginner's mind . Always being in the now. The other process of "measuring" our media is a little more challenging but nevertheless there are techniques that we have successfully employed to this end as long as that are not half measures: Here I would like to tell the story of my first encounter with being, the untermencsh, on an assembly line as a young man. I was working in a lumberyard on the receiving end of a "sticker machine". This particular machines purpose was to manufacture moldings from boards of wood. The principal was very simple there is a square block with blades attached to it that rotates very quickly and strips the lumber of everything unnecessary, like a lathe. In order to adjust the exact dimensions of the output, a piece of molding, there was a technical drawing matching the design from a blueprint, on a which was drawn piece of graph paper the exact measurements. The next task was to align the blades on the block exactly to the drawing line and then securing them. Meticulously arranged, it yielded the perfect molding coming out of the other end of the machine. In computer parlance we speak of input and output and if we can understand that information architecture as we proposed that in the underground back in the 70s was precisely about weighing and measuring media, for the best effect in terms of our ability to have democratic dialogue, on the most important issues, as opposed to the mercenary effectiveness of advertising and war mongering propaganda. We have now instead, the oxymoron of technology entertainment and design media extravaganzas, with the doublespeak about free speech and sustainability and no entry of the word "emmenagogues" in the lexicon of foreign affairs. That is to say a completely dysfunctional "information architecture from the perspective of true free speech, which is not propaganda, that uses the technology of antinutrients from mind control and exploitative pornography and violence, to create fear and hatred, necessary for war mongering agendas. We have mentioned before that war, is the primary pain delivery system, necessary for the profiteering of the drug/pharmaceutical cartels, that control the economy of the planet. Getting back to our "sticker machine" most if not all contemporary mass-produced commodity fetishes including computers are manufactured on assembly lines not unlike our piece of molding and we as assembly line mind control products are dedicated to consume this volume of junk whether we like it or not through the use of motivational research, psychology, psychiatry, and not at all August Compte's version of sociology designed to replace the Ancient Regime s artificial ignorance [propaganda], to paraphrase him: for the need of overpopulation, for the creation of human fodder for war and slavery and the sustainability of a techno fascist state . And, we do have however, the potential to make a design, on our little piece of graph paper and adjust the media editing blades precisely to our needs and with these sharks teeth in place, we should be able to get rid of 99% of all the consumer garbage, constructed by steel collar workers, wage slaves and drug money, that we are bombarded with, on a daily basis. I think that's enough for me today about underground media architecture and the difference between "Shit and ShineOla" in the new media. If there is going to be any salvation from the techno fascist media product, the tsunami of the demographic j , it appears that it is only going to come from the lunatic [heretic] fringe, provided that we have our own recovery in place, 1st things 1st. For me I think it was different, having fallen through the cracks, I found refuge in the works of Ellul and actually discovered Dada after the fact of my own philosophical nada-ism, or ethical nihilism. As for McLuhan, I find the works of Innis to be more precisely definitive. Nevertheless I do see the "learning curve" as we become more attuned to the reality of what Galbraith calls "the new industrial state" i.e. the matrix. And either way becoming detached from the umbilical of the hive mind is McLuhan described it is a process is painful as having the skin peeled off your back. In the motion picture "They Live" there is a scene where the hero was wearing a pair of sunglasses that reveal the hidden messages in advertising i.e.: "obey!", "consume!" and "procreate". The works of critics like Ellul are like those sunglasses. I'm also indebted to the works of others like Bagdikian and the diggers movement with some of the beat old-timers of the 60s and as I was post literate I'm referring to the street activists and not necessarily the pop icons. In any case once you've got a look at what's going on through those sunglasses nothing ever stays the same. When I was referring to Larry's comment "it's all propaganda" in reference to the academic censorship, I was hoping to convey my epiphany experience. Yes I know that Ellul is an influential part of our thinking, but when Larry expressed this simple mantra, from the office of his experience, it was particularly affirming. So yes the truth accrues, as we proceed in our analytical discourse. For decades I have been removing all traces of industrial labeling and logos only to find someone had written about "no labels" on closer investigation of the text I discovered that every sentence had some reference to some corporate icon. The same author has written about "disaster capitalism" how is that different from what our Chicago professor in this excerpt refers to as "creative destruction" : http://www.press.uchicago.edu/Misc/Chicago/791173.html and then again how is that different from what Rosa Luxembourg and Marx call "means of production" wherein to sustain the built-in obsolescence necessitated by industrial process we must continually destroy what we create. This brings me around to the question of architecture and "information". I do not agree that this was a particularly original slant. In fact some of these beat generation true underground people, not the pop stars i.e. Ginsberg, Ferlinghetti and Burroughs etc. but real "street people", as in "take it to the streets", that MC Taylor alludes to having never been there. The term "underground architecture" appeared like a shimmer of white light and then as quickly disappeared into the information overload never to be seen again in the lexicon of "cultural discourse". It was not referring to the design of the underground garage, or storage facilities, but to the antithesis of what Bauhaus and the New York, Chicago schools were putting out and contrary the we were not, as creative pioneers in information architecture for public access and free speech, unaware of the impacts of the "digital age" back then. Aside from the three or four basic elements of classic architecture which are, if I remember: space, structure, form or from an anthropological perspective: hearth - metallurgy, ceramics roof - carpentry enclosure - textile,weaving mound - earthwork which I think is more appropriate, now that we've had a few other elements added notably "information" and "population". The former in my thesis accentuating the latter through artificial ignorance i.e. propaganda. It was industrial information that created the necessity for prefab high-rises to meet population explosions. If we reduce populations architecture becomes horizontal and not vertical. Just because, we have the Guggenheim advertising ART facade in what to paraphrase Postman I call the United States of Las Vegas, in the iron grid of New York City does not mean that we have evolved from the grid. It only means that the "frenetic behavior in the iron grid" has been so intense that now it appears to be a network. The media monopoly that Bagdikian describes, is not changed is still a monopoly even though now is an intensely new media monopoly. And the superficial complexity of information overload is not mean it isn't a basically very simple media monopoly controlled by the same vested interests in farming humanity. The Royal Ontario Museum is another example of computerized architectural junk and if we were really to use artificial intelligence for analytical purposes, in favor of a humanistic use of space then these monstrosities wouldn't be built. Instead we are using computers to build impossible garbage structures, so that they appear as icons for visibility to the tourists. Notably and probably thankfully, we don't have strips like Las Vegas and Disneyland everywhere, because there has to be room for the maze of condominiums that are sprouting up like psychedelic mushrooms all over the inner cities. I really don't see what advantages there is of turning a district where pornography and child prostitution was generating the basic income for the municipalities, like 42nd Ave. and then replacing those with art Mafia galleries, that are basically underground banking systems to launder the same prostitution and drug money. The only difference is that the lucidity of the vice becomes like our Las Vegas sign, larger than the buildings themselves but the inner workings are still vice, gambling prostitution drugs i.e.: "sex and drugs and radiola" Since then, at one time four, but probably now just one, or two, holding companies that control all the advertising on the planet are actually financed by this laundry money and therefore the root cause of our artificial ignorance, via propaganda, it is not surprising that this information or disinformation generates the kind of abominations and architecture that we are seeing proliferate all over the planet. One or two distinctly nonlinear, fragmented, curvilinear or crystalline structures on our megalopolis inner cores surrounded by a forest of high-rise condominiums in office monoliths is not evolution. It is significant that at the height of McCarthyism when urban sprawl was generating the monolithic pristinely mowed lawns with sprinklers sprinkling that we have our CIA sponsored abstract expressionists splattering paint, with their pack of cigarettes rolled up in their T-shirt and glass of liquor somewhere nearby, on the cover of Time life magazine. In this we call ART and free speech freedom of expression? Likewise with this architectural anomalies, that are calling themselves networks smack dab in the middle of these iron grids. Historically as far back as the Dadaesque assemblages Hans Richter back in the 20s, wherein he builds his structure up into the first floor of his house and then was forced to evict the tenant on the second floor, so that he can cut a hole through the floorboards to continue the growth of his sculpture. For him to turn around and explain it the house is a grid and his sculpture is a network, would be about the same type of distortion of reality. g~k~ ———-Original Message——— From: Jones, Peter [mailto:pjones@faculty.ocadu.ca] Sent: Tuesday, September 27, 2016 10:51 AM To: larry.schmidt@utoronto.ca; thinktank@vifru.org Subject: RE: Moment of Complexity made more complex Yes, Ellul's critical work, like Illich and McLuhan for me, "accrues truth" over time. These are contributions of wisdom that become "more true" as their propositions become part of our own social theories. Upon first reading I remember there being a kind of shock of disbelief that the reach of technique and propaganda might be so encompassing and immanent. Then over time, we make sense of the world from these views - one's observations are forever colored by their axioms. Revolutionary work, and unfortunately as meaningful as ever. and effects of an overpopulated world and denial is not a river in Egypt the 12 steps of Alcoholics Anonymous is an exemplary model for recovery from addiction and so I will be using it here is a suggested means broad recovery it is the common practice in 12 step circles to open the meetings with the moment silence followed by the serenity prayer the serenity prayer God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change the courage to change the things I can and the wisdom to know the difference they will not might be done in my understanding the root cause of our ecological Apocalypse is rooted in our addiction to media the extensions of the human to avoid mystification it is important to understand that our technological society is a society of media addicts for the purpose of this essay I need to clarify that the definitions of science is synonymous with the word magic as it was used in antiquity the word technology and media are synonymous in the modern term addict is also synonymous with the word sinner in scriptural terms my purpose in this presentation is to share my experience strength and hope in terms of my recovery experience from media addiction or power addiction and how it relates to my understanding of media ethics and specifically with regards to global procreative hygiene awareness as it applies to our interfaith dialogue media ethics is the natural result of recovery from media addiction the first precept in the 12 steps is rigourous honesty the second deflation of the false self by putting our faith in the power greater than ourselves in the third step is a complete surrender of self-will to the will of a higher power of our own understanding to supplement my arguments I will be using sources from numerous wisdom teachings and spiritual traditions some of them you may recognize others may be stranger are new to you however I ask that you keep an open mind this is a very difficult subject and that best we hope to open this brief introduction up for future dialogue in brainstorming we are keenly aware that that the subject procreative hygiene is taboo in some circles but in practising the 12 traditions we will avoid any kind of confrontation or outside issues in short as much as possible remain free of political or religious controversy simply put my intention is to present my truth as I understand it for your consideration and contemplation I believe that we are all here for one purpose and that is to discover what it is that we have in common rather than what alienates us I will be seeking that common ground from the very outset my interest in interfaith dialogue dates back to the peace movements in the 60s and the belief was that if we could learn to respect each other by understanding one another that we would have peace we have had war without end and no end in sight and I believe that we are all here to change that I believe that the only way that we can conquer is with the sword of the most high truth in the fire of unconditional love I was present at the world Parliament of religions in 1993 one of the speakers stated that for many years in his life not unlike myself he had been studying comparative religion and philosophy and found incredible beauty and truth in the writings and the traditions notice that in the world no one was actually practising their religions at that time I was representing by default my ancestry is a keeper of the flame our indigenous people now almost extinct have been subject to genocide and diasporas for seven centuries the culture is now completely homogenized to the extent that there may be others who are also keepers of the flame for our people but I do not know who they are and I may be the last of them I understood at a very early age that the reason for these occupations through war was the result of imperial population expansions so that the idea that no one is practising their religions resonated with me very clearly it is not very well known that there were scriptural references to overpopulation in the very first Genesis produced centuries before the Old Testament version that we are familiar with where is the flood of Noah in our western tradition was apparently caused by sin it is not very clear what that sin was however in the earlier version because of the flood was due to overpopulation in other words the compulsive obsessive hubris of our antediluvian ancestors created ecological strife to such an extent that nature destroyed them by flood the scene then would have been excessive procreation it is ironic that we still our condition with toxic shaming to think that the sin is our sexuality but in actuality it appears to be our uncontrolled procreation we speak of the wages of sin being deaf and I don't think we need very much keen observation or mystifying meditation to see things as they are notice that we are indeed in the middle of an ecological Apocalypse is the result of our hubris and greed the farmer who is indoctrinated to believe that it is okay to raise children for the purpose of labour the landlord encourages slaves to procreate because the more addicted slaves there are the greater the profits the religious bureaucrat who counts the money from the poor box and is grateful that the poor shall always be with us and encourages her congregation to increase and multiply because that increases the income from baptisms weddings and funerals the warmonger who encourages the religions to increase and multiply for greater advantage in were in the drug dealer in the disease establishment who profits most of all from human misery the equation is very simple the greater the numbers and population the greater the misery disease famine and war the greater the profits if you're in the drug business the media monopoly of the disease establishment financed by the big drug dealers that is to say big salt big sugar big caffeine big pharmaceuticals and the mother of them all big opium not to mention the plug in drugs are themselves media addicts they believe in God the God of gold oil and drugs drugs being the main part the gold and the oil are there only to launder the drug money the God of media the extensions of the human money and power this appears to be the religion of the majority in this age increasingly religions themselves are becoming simply media providers showbiz ersatz religiosity increased mystification and metaphysical kitsch like our build an obsolescence seems to be the only marketable possibility we flipped through the channels in webpages like passing billboards on the Internet superhighway seeking but never finding any oasis or restingplace we are media addicts in denial and we have no way back home to the garden of sustainability because we have lost all contact with the most high truth of our being so what can we do about it the 12 steps are basically 12 principles the first principle is the concept of rigourous honesty unless the attic can come to the realization that they are powerless over there addiction there is no way that they will ever recover because without that rigourous honesty they will continue to stay in denial and all the weapons of mass distraction will keep them there locked into their tranquilizer chair's vicariously acting out with their heroes or antiheroes that seem to be miraculously escaping the bondage and domination of their captors and in this delusional state can continue posturing at making change by donating to NGOs and everybody else out there with their hands out that our greenwashing the issues in reality however even though it will appear to them that somehow they are dealing with a compassion fatigue and imagining that they are flying in virtual reality free of the world's worries in actual reality they are wired in so completely and so totally blank the embryo in the matrix of the new industrial state that moulds and manipulates us from cradle-to-grave is there any scriptural reference that suggests an alternative to the state of addiction and slavery the Judeo-Christian Islamic world all share the same ethical precepts the most obvious violation as thou shalt not commit murder as there has been more without end in the West from the time of David to the present but in terms of our media addiction as a society we need to pay careful attention also to the very root of the other violations that of being disconnected from the most high truth have no other gods before me and make no graven images and do not worship these icons if you want to stay free this violation I think is a classic definition of media addiction sacrificing the connectivity to the I am presence whether it is called the Buddha nature or the Christ within or the anus OF the mystery of the nameless one or the 999 names of God or the philosophical thing that it is are all symbolic representations of one and the same thing the most high truth when the great ethicist was observing the life force symbolically represented by the burning bush and was completely overwhelmed by the mystery and the truth of his vision he was asking how will I describe you to the people below in the valley who are worshiping the golden calf and the answer was I am that I am in other words if they can't see it you can't tell them about it the other ethical precept that stands out in terms of the ancient regime practice of encouraging population increase for the sake of building legions of armies the number of slaves and to leave the toilers who were needed to build munitions along with the technological necessity to have the entire society in the brave new world addicted to some of it is to say sucrose which is the precursor of multiple other addictions and root cause of

perhaps 85% of all of our medical trauma and expenses this precept thou shalt not commit adultery I think needs to be correctly interpreted in the deeper sense that idolatry is actually adulteration whether it's sexual adulteration caused by toxic shaming that creates the sex addict or the adulteration of the food supply the pollution of air and water or the public mind I think the concept of freedom from slavery would imply the practice of not contaminating through perversion for some kind of remuneration or material profit motive polluting the natural order of the world just as we start thinking that our hubris will save us from her own folly we need to remember another ethical precept thou shalt not take the name of the Lord in vain this one especially as most important in terms of emancipation from power addiction because historically the father of our present disease establishment media monopoly was the earlier ancient politico religious New World order that basically argued in favour of increasing populations for the purpose of war and has been reiterated ever since the belief and myth that populations are balanced out by the three Horsemen of the Apocalypse disease famine and war the blasphemy of taking on the role of God in order to farm humanity and profiteer from human misery is sustained by the hubris this auto masochistic addiction to power completely disconnects those who believe that ruling in hell is better than serving in heaven from the most high truth and is a suicidal dance that throws the entire civilization into hysterical overconsumption the end result being the spread of urban deserts that aren't have been for centuries eating up our planet that beautiful blue marble in space like a virus or mould on an apple when we speak of the tree of life that unites us all we can imagine this planet like that Apple in the Garden of sustainability and so it was that with our hubris that we created the tree of knowledge of good and evil what we used to call magic is now called science I don't think personally that finding out the difference between what works and what does not work in nature is necessarily a bad thing the magic or the science of our ancestors carried from generation to generation from elder to youth the ancestral wisdom of the use of herbs for healing for nutrition and for procreative hygiene I cannot see how this knowledge could possibly remove man from the Garden of sustainability I think the real problem arose when we decided to rearrange the most high truth according to our power addicts cravings for self-aggrandizement having lost connectivity with the true self or the higher mind simply speaking there was a story that illustrates this concept that I like very much and it goes like this on imperial religionist bureaucrat and the devil were walking down the highway together and having a pleasant conversation when lo and behold the bureaucrat noticed in the distance a man in the bushes have found some yarns containing scrolls he asked the devil what has he found the embodiment of all evil answered he has found the truth and so they continued walking the religionist was a little confused and ask your Majesty you are of the Prince of deception why are you not intervening and removing the truth from the man the devil answered my friend there was no need for that he will rearrange it himself so we have a problem not that we are familiar with the tree of knowledge of good and evil but that we are rearranging it to our own liking we have a man machine reality that is based on scientism and not science we have an ongoing theological war without end that is a complete departure from the ethical precepts of the most high truth which is the religion of religions and the common core teachings of all spiritual traditions I'm sure that at the time of Genesis the idea that humanity should go forth and increase and multiply was a positive and benevolent natural thing to do but in an era where all of our resources that we counted on to keep populations at bay have failed us in a time where the really most inconvenient truth that our imperial religiosity has generated an irreversible demographic J that is like a tsunami that will destroy everything in its path in an age where two world wars into cold wars have not put a dent in this demographic J I think it is wise to accept the fact that the profitable theory that disease famine and war have not been successful and in fact have only compounded our suicidal race to oblivion we can no longer count on war because we have reached the technological reality of mutual assured destruction as long as there is profit from scarcity in the form of artificial agricultural processes and the adulteration the food including the pollution of the DNA we cannot expect Phelan to be considered a problem and of course the profits from disease for the drug cartels in the pharmaceutical companies is not going to be a deterrent when our economies are entirely supplemented by the income from these corruptions of science we see the struggle between science that is pseudoscience and religion that is pseudo-religion were in reality there is no actual conflict the conflict arises because the human who has lost contact with the most high truth because he has rearranged it to the liking of his own addictive personality no longer is capable of navigating without the writer or the compass of his own ethical precepts and is lost in the darkness of his own self perpetuated ignorance unmediated artificial ignorance generating an artificial codependency and perpetuating the addictive vicious cycle of self-delusion self-aggrandizement and self annihilation the definition of hell is the absence of the most high truth disconnection from the true self this is the unforgiven will send the imperial religions of the ancient regime that had a whirlwind from their own pursuits and that child is what we now call the media monopoly there was already a climate change in the Middle Ages as a result of overpopulation people to feed the religious wars people needed to build fireplaces and insulate their homes with wood from the forests that were sacred temples to our ancestors they needed would to make weapons and suits of armour they needed wood to build warships and later they needed wood to build canons of course inevitably they ran out of wood and so although everyone knew that burning coal was toxic trying to the air and debilitating to the health the religious military governments banned the use of firewood for manufacturing weapons and of course we started burning fossil fuels once called ran out we turn to oil and font two world wars over that resource and then to cold wars over nuclear power it all these wars the image of the priest blessing the weapons and the tanks the bombs in the arsenals of chemical and bacteriological deaf man in the Roman collar on television proclaiming that it is our duty to nuke anyone that does not agree with us and all of this the fields the poppies growing on row it is all about the poppies so that few addicts could profiteer from human misery and be blessed the process it is why we are here with the hope that interfaith dialogue will help us get rid of our distrust and anger so that we can return to the light of reason we can only conquer with the sword of the most high truth in the fire of unconditional love closing I would like to say the serenity prayer with you now God grant us the serenity to accept the things we cannot change we cannot take the inventory of other power addicts were fix them in any way the courage to change the things we can we know what it is to be an addict in scriptural terms a

an ongoing open dialogue forum and portal entry node. The protocol guidelines consist of constantly evolving praxis of mindfulness of propaganda technological as per; [Jaques Ellul] who "explores and attempts to prove the thesis that propaganda, whether its ends are demonstrably good or bad, is not only destructive to democracy, it is perhaps the most serious threat to humanity operating in the modern world." Some of these technical methods include: information overload subliminal semiotic implants chemical (Sucrose etc.) and plug-in (Internet) drugs work enforced adrenaline cycling psychologically toxic violent imaging i.e.: in terms of Info overload - it is generally believed that exchanging URL links in social sites is dialogue, whereas the actual reality is that is is simply product advertising. Let us analyze the info. links submitted below ...what is the actual content ...there is no visible abstract, just a title the subliminally would draw in the "like minded". At best the links could be used as footnotes. Here is a more precise abstract: " The Big Rest - Economics Economist a~y~ offers a radically honest and deliciously sweet review of our absurdly dysfunctional economic system and what we must do in order to survive and thrive in the 21st century." Now in order to present this test clip from an entire average typical info overloaded website with all of the Firefox https://mail.proton.me/u/0/sent/3x2xq08O XxwPjt8Y5jYnQA... 1 of 5 1/5/23, 01:15 advertising templates remove in reader view, (always preset in color reversal negative - white font on black background) - had to be redacted down to this "absurdly" simplistic single sentence. But what does the actual sentence and it's radically honest and deliciously sweet rhetorical flourishes contain in terms of informing the reader . Certainly all the buzzwords are there i.e.: dysfunctional economic system This tells us what exactly. From the study of propaganda technology (media) we can soon discern it from actual two <-> communications , reciprocal interchange. Other than that there is no method to debate the point . It is one way and top down. So we have to actually relearn the fundamentals of open dialogue ...compare this clip from another overloaded website, reduced in the same manner as above: The Big Reset "... claims that the pandemic is a "media campaign of fear" orchestrated by powerful groups with the aim of eliminating fundamental rights and freedoms," For the seeker of precise technical methodologies of conditioning the "public hive mind" this could actually be help full but the number of searches necessary to find it are an arduous dig, in a media cesspool i.e: Although the major search engine for major films has a hidden link entitled "plot summary"... and yes it that can be preprogrammed to be automatically opened in text view, so most of the toxic advertising dross is blocked ...the bias of media lack of one for minor films / documentaries is is conspicuous and minority views are entirely absent. Using the techniques mentioned above for reducing to text an article in a main stream media gives us some clue as to the actual content of The Big Reset thesis. see attached PDF However the great effort to find this information that actually articulates, albeit with added ideological push and implants, one has to go through a maze of some very sophisticated hurdles to bypass the hooks, therein. Nevertheless, an editorial effort could be made via our ADBAN screening protocols to present to others in a concise manner the gist of it. The advanced student of information architecture would be able to reduce the time to actually audit a synopsis of this one out of billions of videos by transcription from text to voice at an increase speed (careful with this one - the implants then become increasingly subliminal, so the higher brain does not filter them consciously...but this also is the case if there is no zero tolerance of Sucrose and other chemicals, that upset the Ph balance) but once reduced and edited the content is safe for learning exchange that is inner directed and not outer directed : Balabolka with Natural Voices works especially well, regrettably it only functions in Microshaft OS... Firefox https://mail.proton.me/u/0/sent/3x2xq08OXxwPjt8Y5jYnQA... 2 of 5 1/5/23, 01:15 there are very poor alternatives in Linux (of course you can dedicate a virtual machine to this task) For about six years our ViFrU* think tank has been working on a GUI for DeepSpeech that now can pull audio snippets with keywords ...we intend to parse our 5M+ word data base this way for A.I. delivery. ERGO ...the means whereby massive info overload can be automatically redacted and audited for safe delivery. Now for me to see the documentary of 1H 45 Min with my ears in 10 Min , stripped of all fluff ...i would open another machine with a carefully modified and cleaned of tracking WIN OS > render to MP3 or AAC with Balabolka . Then for members post to the cloud via Mega or others that generate a link and send it via encrypted email to members . All of this sounds incredibly complicated but this is precisely the de-schooling, de-design, de-programming underground information architecture methodology we use for safe learning exchange and true P2P freedom of inquiry at ViFrU* Needless to say In 45 years we have only half a dozen marginal subscribers !!! Yet once the pattern recognition is rendered in A.I. processes described above will take seconds and not hours ...and ethically programed propaganda parser vs. Artificial Ignorance. It will happen and last for a few moments before it is co-opted like our 1972-74 Multi Media Periodicals were : The idea of a virtual university as an institution that used computers and telecommunications instead of buildings and transport to bring students and teachers together for university courses was first published in works like "De-Schooling Society" by Ivan Illich that introduced the concept of the use of computer networks as switchboards for learning, in 1970. In 1971 George Kasey, a media(activist)e thicist, delivered a series of lectures on "the Philosophy of Communications De-Design" under the sponsorship of Phil Jacklin PhD, professor at University of California San Jose, a member of "The (San Francisco)Bay Area Committee for Open Media and Public Access." The lectures contained the theoretical outlines for use of telecommunications and media for de-schooling and de-design of mainstream education and an alternative Virtual Free University system. By 1972 George Kasey established "Media Free Times - periodical Multimedia Random Sampling of Anarchic Communications Art" a prototype for remote learning with the use of "multi-media periodicals," that are now commonly referred to as "web pages". Periodical Multi-Media Random Sampling of Anarchic Communications Art

One of the worlds first experimental interactive multi-media periodicals and a prototype for what are now commonly called Web Pages, E-Zines and like YouTube without the ads, was started by g~k~ and associates at the University of California San Jose in 1972 and continued via the University of British Columbia 1973-1975, as a community public media access project entitled Media Free Times and is now still the official E-journal of
The PeaceMaker Virtual Free University
